IN THE BEE TO-DAY

THE WEATHER.

U. S. Department of Agriculture, Weather Bureau, Toledo, O., July 11, 1892.

Generally fair weather continues over the greater portion of the country, with the exception of local thunder storms which have been most numerous over the northern states. The following are the heaviest rainfalls reported during the past 24 hours: DesMoines,1.60; Charleston, 1.02; Norfolk, .68; all other stations report less than a quarter of an inch.

The area of high pressure covers the entire country east of the Mississippi river and will continue to cause fair weather with the exception of local thunder storms. There is an area of low barometric pressure central over Wyoming, which is causing very light showers over the northwest.

The present warm weather will continue and as there are no general rains expected the only relief will be from local thunder storms, which are possible in almost any section of the country.

Forecast for Toledo and vicinity for next 36 hours, fair, continued warm; a thunder storm is possible.

THE TROOPS ASSEMBLING

For the Purpose of Marching on Homestead.

An Army of Seven Thousand Pennsylvania Militia,

Will Soon Have Possession of Carnegie's Great Iron Works,

The Strikers Have Had Absolute Control for a Week,

But Their Reign Will Now be Ended Temporarily.

It May All be Done Quickly, Quietly and Peaceably,

And no Serious Trouble is Anticipated—But the Situation is Very Precarious, and no One Can Tell what a Day May Bring Forth.

Homestead, Pa., July 11.—Men stand about the streets of Homestead to-day knowing not what to expect. The white-winged dove of peace, that so many prated of yesterday, has folded its wings and has hidden its head. Anxiety is written on the face of the townspeople. Relief stands prominent on those of the strangers.

Conservative men welcome the coming of the state troops. The hot-headed ones resent the invasion.

The leaders counsel co-operation with the state authority but angry mutterings show that their view is not shared by those under their authority.

There is no thought that the troops will be resisted, but danger lies in the desire for retaliation or whatever it may be called, on the Carnegie company for attempting to bring in Pinkerton men. Every moment of delay in the arrival of the state troops increases this danger.

Those who have gone openly about with loaded weapons in their hands are not in a mood to have this privilege restricted. Men who have witnessed scenes of bloodshed, who have seen their fellows sweltering in their blood and who have waged warefare against a force of well equipped and disciplined mercenaries have imbibed too strong a taste for warfare to give it up under compulsion.

A state bordering on anarchy cannot be changed to one of recognized law and order without great danger. The thought is in the mind of every workman that the assumption of authority of the state backed by 8,000 soldiers is the preliminary step to the introduction of non-union labor in the mills.

"Non-union" is second only to "Pinkerton" is the feeling that arises in the minds of those whose bread and butter depend on the result of the present trouble. "To the works," and "to the Bastile," would be synonymous. It will be seen that the state troops cannot arrive too soon.

The Indignities Shown Strangers

last night by self-appointed committees of the hotheaded men showed no signs of countenance this morning. Last night matters were carried too far in some instances.

One man who was supposed to have originated the report that the state troops had been ordered out was in great danger until the report was verified. Even then threats were made of violence to him and a hint that he had better leave town was given. He did not take the hint.

Attempted censorship of the press has ceased with the break of day. It was only under cover of darkness that these unauthorized zealots attempted to make their unreasonable prejudice against newspaper men bear fruit.

Hugh O'Donnell, the young leader of the mill hands, was almost alone in stemming this tide of fanaticism. His word is law among his comrades and largely to his strenuous efforts are due the maintenance of order.

The state troops will be received with proper respect. The steady tramp of battalion of blue-coated soldiers will do much to impress the radicals among the workmen with a sense of the real condition of things. Meanwhile the forces in control of the advisory committee are kept under orders. No relaxation of vigilance will take place until the troops arrive and assume formal charge. The pickets still watch along the banks of the Monongahela and the town patrol paces its beat

Mass Meeting Called.

A mass meeting of citizens, members of the advisory committee and locked out employes has been called to consider the coming of the troops.

Set right—all the proper functions of womanhood. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the remedy. It regulates and promotes their action, and removes the obstructions and suppressions which cause trouble and misery. At the two critical periods in a woman's life—the change from girlhood to womanhood, and, later, the "change of life"—it is a perfectly safe and an especially valuable remedial agent, that can produce only good results.

It's a powerful, invigorating tonic, and a soothing and strengthening nervine; a legitimate medicine—purely vegetable, perfectly harmless—and carefully adapted, by an experienced physician, to woman's delicate needs.

For all the derangements, irregularities, and weaknesses peculiar to the sex, the "Favorite Prescription" is a remedy so certain that it can be guaranteed. If it doesn't give satisfaction in every case, the money is returned. No other medicine for women is sold in this way. No other medicine can be.

TROOPS ORDERED.

Lte Dasmand of the Sheriff Responded to by Governor Pattison.

Harrisburg, Pa., July 11.—The entire division of the national guard of Pennsylvania, about 8,000 men, have been ordered to Homestead to support Sheriff McCleary in suppressing the riots at that place. This action of the governor was taken in receipt of the following dispatch:

"Pittsburg, Pa., July 10.

"To Robert E. Pattison, Governor, Harrisburg, Pa.:

"The situation at Homestead has not improved. While all is quiet there, the strikers are in control, and openly express to me and to the public their determination that the works shall not be operated unless by themselves. After making all efforts in my power, I have failed to secure a posse respectable enough in numbers to accomplish anything, and I am satisfied that no posse raised by civil authority can do anything to change the condition of affairs, and that any attempt by an inadequate force to restore the right of law will only result in further armed resistance and consequent loss of life. Only a large military force will enable me to control matters. I believe if such force is sent, the disorderly element will be overawed and order will be restored. I therefore call upon you to furnish me such assistance.

(Signed) "Wm. H. McCleary, Sheriff.

Gov. Pattison, as commander-in-chief of the national guard, at once issued the following order:

The Order.

George R. Snowden, Major General, commanding National Guard of Pennsylvania:

Put the division under arms and move at once with ammunition to the support of the sheriff of Allegheny county at Homestead. Maintain the peace—protect all persons in their rights under the constitution and laws of the state. Communicate with me.

(Signed) Robert E. Pattison, Governor.

To Sheriff McCleary the following telegram was sent:

W. H. McCleary, Sheirff of Allegheny county, Pittsburg, Pa.:

Have ordered Maj.-Gen. Geo. R. Snowden with the division of the national guard of Pennsylvania to your support at once. Put yourself in communication with him. Communicate with me further particulars.

(Signed) Robert E. Pattison, Governor.

Gen. Snowden, with the adjutant general and quartermaster general, at once proceeded to formulate the orders for the mobilization of the guard.

Brigade Orders.

Harrisburg, Pa., July 11.—Late last night Maj. Gen. Snowden issued the following order to Brig. Gen. Robert P. Deschert, Philadelphia, commanding the First brigade: In compliance with orders of the commander-in-chief, you will concentrate your command in camp at Mt. Gretna by to-morrow (Monday) afternoon, and there await further orders. Battery horsed. Take with you three days' rations and all ammunition on hand. First troop mounted will move on first train available on Pennsylvania railroad bound west.

An order was issued to the second brigade to concentrate at a point Gen. Snowden declined to make public (presumably Homestead) and await orders. The Third brigade was ordered to concentrate at Lewistown and move west. Telegrams were sent to all the regimental commanders.

The News at Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, July 11.—The news of the ordering out of the national guard, when received here, caused much excitement.

The following telegram was received at midnight by Col. W. C. Connelly, jr., of the governor's staff:

"Orders issued for the entire division to move immediately. The Second and Third brigades will rendezvous at Brinton and the Fourth brigade at Mt. Gretna, to be held in reserve.

(Signed) W. W. Greenland.
"Adjutant General of Pennsylvania."

At Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, July 11.—Brigadier General Deschert, commanding the First brigade, national guard of Pennsylvania, received the order to mobilize his men at Mt. Gretna last night. Gen. Deschert at once sent for some of his staff and with them repaired to brigade headquarters. Notices were sent to the different regiments to assemble their men at 10 o'clock to-day at their armories and be ready to proceed to Mt. Gretna.

The news of the ordering out of the guard did not spread rapidly, owing to the lateness of the hour at which the order was issued and to the fact that many of the men were out of the city over Sunday. At none of the armories at midnight was there more than a half dozen men assembled.

Strength of the Guard.

The National Guard of Pennsylvania consists of one division of three brigades, numbering about 6,700. The First brigade is commanded by Brigadier General Deschert and the headquarters are located in this city. The first brigade musters about 2,000 men and is the smallest in numerical strength of the three. It is made up of the First regiment, 529 men; Second regiment, 464; Third regiment, 365; Sixth regiment, 350; Battalion State Fencibles, 179 men; Gray Invincibles (colored), 45 men; First city troops, 49 men, Battery A, two guns, 57 men.

The Second brigade is the strongest in the division, numbering about 2,600 men. It is commanded by Brigadier General Wiley, with headquarters at Franklin. It is made up as follows: Fifth regiment, 424 men; Sixth regiment, 382 men; Fourteenth regiment, 420 men; Fifteenth regiment, 408 men; Sixteenth regiment, 397 men; Eighteenth regiment, 435 men; Sheridan troops of cavalry, 43 men, and Battery B, 79 men.

The Third brigade musters about 2,100 men and is commanded by Brigadier General Gobin, with headquarters at Lebanon. The regiments of which it is made up are the following: Eighth, 466 men; Fourteenth, 389 men; Ninth, 429 men; Twelfth, 344 men; Thirteenth, 397 men; Governor's troops of Cavalry, 50 men, and Battery C, 50 men.

WORK OF THE PRESS

At the Scene of the Trouble—Many Difficulties.

Homestead, Pa., July 11.—One of the curious episodes of the day was the round-up of unbadged newspapermen at the strikers' headquarters immediately upon their arrival from Pittsburg. There were about half a dozen correspondents on the afternoon train into Homestead, and immediately upon leaving the cars they were met by several polite, well-dressed gentlemen, who asked what their business was in town. As soon as it was explained, the correspondent was told to go right to headquarters, have himself identified and get his badge, and in order that there should be no mistake about the direction, several volunteers went along to show the way.

The whole thing was done so quietly and with such a complete air of good humor that it was some time before any of the reporters imagined that there was anything like duress intended.

Even then it only dawned upon them gradually. When the little party was brought to the headquarters it was found that Mr. O'Donnell, who is the committee on press, was absent, at rest. He had been up all the preceding night. No one could issue the badges and the gentlemen were advised that it might be imprudent to go away from headquarters without their little squares of white calico. "Of course you can go if you wish," said Mr. Crawford, one of the committee, "but you may be subject to annoyance, and I would advise you to stay here until O'Donnell has seen you."

The gentlemen all agreed to stay, and in a few moments some of the other reporters gathered in and warmly recommended the most exact obedience to any advice tendered by the committee. The duress lasted about two hours before O'Donnell appeared, and even then it took more than half an hour for the badges to be awarded, the committee being in anything but an amiable mood; one of them suggested that the mode of identification was so loose that if the Pinkertons were not fools they would be well represented among the so-called reporters.

Treatment of Reporters.

The strikers perfecting their organization have been, and appear to be gaining strength in every way, except with the press. The prominent newspapers of the country, of which copies are being received in this city, appear to be resentful of the espionage and restrictions imposed upon their representatives, and the leaders of the mill workers now realize that the attempt to exercise censorship over the press dispatches has been a most serious error.

Everything that can be done by Hugh O'Donnell to protect the newspaper men from harassing interference has been done, and it is safe to say that so long as he is the dominant spirit, no more reporters will be ordered out of town. But Mr. O'Donnell is in advance of his fellows, and the spirit of toleration which he evinces is not shared by many of the rank and file. The great majority of the strikers are still disposed to regard the newspaper man as an interloper. Of course all this is irritating to the newspaper men, and when the strikers make their habitual assertion that peace reigns at Homestead and perfect freedom maintains on every hand, the victims of their martial law methods wonder how, if that be true, they should have been forcibly marched away by a strikers' committee and deprived of their liberty for an hour in violation of the laws of Pennsylvania, and in defiance of the constitutional liberty of the press.

Indeed there are representatives of the press in this city who maintain that the fear of subsequent visitations impels them to an excess of caution, and that their news dispatches suffer from the consciousness that the morrow may bring a reckoning from at irate committee who know no code of ethics, and who, while clamoring to be released from the oppression of capital, do not show such a fine appreciation of liberty when another's rights are to be observed.

This is the situation candidly expressed, and the press but fulfills its functions when it says it is only when temerity outweighs discretion that the correspondents in this city exercise that perfect freedom of news expression which would characterize their dispatches from any other point, and which even the gravity of the situation at Homestead should not obscure.

Fear Pinkerton Spies.

That there are at least half a dozen Pinkertons in town is conceded by the committee, and this explains the stringency of their press regulations, and stories are told of extreme vigilance with which everybody is watched. One suspect was closely examined and nothing being found, his money and other things were returned to him; but he was taken to the track and pointed the way to Pittsburg. He had aroused suspicion by lingering about among several groups, and one man had followed him for hours before he was taken in hand. The patrols are by no means violent. They question a stranger politely, but if he cannot give a good account of himself, he must leave the town at once.

The fact is that Homestead is as much in a state of seige as though a public enemy were camped upon the heights around the town, and their gunboats lying in the river. The civil law has given place to the martial, and on the whole, the latter is being administered with less friction than one would expect.

The orders of the advisory committee, so curiously resurrected from its recent death and burial certainly meet with all respect by all the crowds; but there is here and there a note of revolt very plainly audible in this harmony of ungovernment now prevailing in Homestead.

Mr. O'Donnell, the new as well as the old chairman, has a difficult task before him. Anybody but himself would think it impossible. He is a clean-cut, clean-looking young man, dark as a Spaniard, with piercing black eyes, a resolute mouth and chin, and the courtesy and good breeding of one more used to the drawing room than the foundry. He was badly handled in escorting the surrendered Pinkertons after the battle, and his great regret in connection with the fight was the treatmen of the prisoners under protection.

His effort to secure the safety of the detectives has seriously shaken his influence with the unthinking part of his following, and this is one of the elements in the problem of the advisory committee. The people generally seem to be glad that it has taken up its work again, but they do not believe that it will be long before it again dissolves itself and burns its records.

EXPRESSIONS OF SYMPATHY

Sent by Many Laborers to the Strikers at Homestead.

Chicago, July 11.—Laborers turned out en masse yesterday in response to a call from the various labor leaders to protest against the outrages committed by the Pinkertons at Homestead. The meeting was held in Vorwarts Turner hall and over 600 men were present. The German element predominated at the meeting. Two chairmen (Wm. Holmes for the English speaking portion of the audience and August Nelson for the German) presided over the meeting. Mr. Holmes called the assemblage to order and made a few remarks, in which he denounced the Pinkertons in vehement language.

Chairman Holmes announced that the following resolutions had been prepared by the committee, and he proceeded to read them.

The preamble set forth that the present criminal system, which concentrates aggregated wealth in the hands of a few non-producers and robs thousands of wealth producing slaves of their birthright—the right to labor and to the results of their toil—has again borne its legitimate fruit of blood at Homestead, Pa., where the producers of untold millions have been shot down by hired mercenaries of greedy capitalists; and, further, that the shooting down of striking workingmen by hired thugs at the command of capitalists, is contrary to the spirit of the American declaration of independence and a great menace to liberty; therefore,

Resolved, That this mass meeting of citizens of various foreign nations and native born Americans protest against the policy which places the lives and liberty of wealth producers in the hands of greedy corporations.

Resolved, That while we are in favor of universal peace, we rejoice that the Homestead workers received their invaders in a manner befitting free men, who have homes and rights to guard.

Resolved, That we protest against and condemn the employment of Pinkerton or any other armed tools of capital to overawe and shoot down the poor, and we demand that William and Robert Pinkerton, Andrew Carnegie and H. C. Frick be prosecuted and held criminally liable for the murders perpetrated at Homestead.

Afterwards another resolution was adopted and ordered telegraphed to the strikers at Homestead. It contained these words:

Resolved, That we tender to our fellow laborers our moral and financial and physical support.

The Printers Resolve.

Chicago, July 11.—Chicago Typographical union, No. 16, at a meeting yesterday adopted the following:

Resolved, That Chicago Typographical union, No. 16, while deprecating the loss of human life made necessary by the felonious attacks of Pinkerton detectives at Homestead, Pa., upon law-abiding citizens and workingmen, hereby tender the sincere sympathy and indorsement of this body with the measures taken by the said workingmen to repel invaders and to defend their families and homes, and this union further tenders to the Amalgamated association of Pennsylvania not only its moral and financial support, but its assistance if necessary in its endeavor to protect its members from the iniquitous policy and unjust requirements of the Carnegie Manufacturing Co.

Resolved, That in the light of recent events at Homestead, Pa., and of the fact that Pinkerton men have been used in the past to oppress, overawe, and defeat the fair and equitable request of workingmen in their efforts to maintain their rights, and recognizing the Pinkertons as an unlawful armed body of men in a state of free citizens, Chicago union, No. 16, hereby pledges its sympathy, support and hearty indorsement of the recent suggestion that the workingmen organize armed military companies to protect themselves against invasion of the Pinkerton detectives and the disastrous effects of the presence of these unscrupulous and unpatriotic mercenaries in the times of labor troubles.

WILL NOT RESIST.

The Strikers Dare Not Oppose the Army of Militia.

Homestead, Pa., July 11.—Intense excitement was created when it became known here that the Pennsylvania militia, 8,000 strong, had been ordered out and would arrive in Homestead to-day.

The news flashed over the wires to this city at 10:16 p. m., and a few minutes later it had come to the ears of the strikers. At first the reporters received it with incredulity, but a few inquiries among the press representatives convinced them that it was right. Little groups gathered at the street corners, and the situation was discussed in earnest tones. Hot-headed strikers were at first disposed to be a little defiant, and there were occasional declarations that even the militia would be opposed; but when it was learned that the division ordered out numbered 8,000 men, these declarations promptly gave way to "Oh, well, we have beat the Pinkertons, anyway. They did not care to come," and thus consolation is found in the reflection that the most hated enemy of organized labor—the Pinkerton guards—had been obliged to confess defeat and give up the battle.

The leaders of the strikers was unusually uncommunicative.

"We cannot talk," was the response to all interrogations. Later the opinions were frequently expressed by the rank and file that the militia would be received by no hostile demonstration, and that an armistice would be declared until after their departure.

"But they will have to go away sometime," said the leader of a little group near the spot, "and when they do we would like to see them run the mill with non-union."

This little sentence expressed as fully as could volumes the situation that will be ushered in by the advent of the militia. As long as this army of militia men are on the ground there will be no opposition from the strikers, no lawlessness and no violent demonstrations, but when the militia is withdrawn the strikers will swoop down like birds of prey on any non-unionists that attempt to fill their places. This is undoubtedly the plan of the strikers, and the chief fear of their leaders now is that the Carnegie Company will hasten to install the non-union workmen in the mills immediately upon the arrival of the militia. If this be done a great advantage would be gained by the company by the occupation of the mills, and opportunity would doubtless be afforded them to bring in arms for the defense of their workmen, and the strikers would be at a great disadvantage on the retirement of the militia.

At midnight the horrible fear took possession of the strikers that the company might even sneak in Pinkerton men in disguise of workmen, while the militia held possession, and as such a move would mean a practical triumph over the strikers, the suspicion has caused great perturbation. Altogether the strikers are in a very uneasy frame of mind and their anxious faces give evidence of their excitement.

With Open Arms.

Burgess McCluckie, who with Hugh ODonnell, one of the leaders of the Homestead strikers, was seen and asked: "How do you regard the latest news—the calling out of the militia?"

"That is right in our line. It suits us first rate."

"How will the militia be received?"

"With open arms."

"There will be no hostility?"

"None whatever. We will receive them in a fraternal spirit and accord to them that respect due to the representatives of the grandeur and dignity of the great state of Pennsylvania. We have been expecting them, and we are glad they are coming. There will not be the slightest opposition to their presence, nor the least manifestation of unfriendliness."

"Do you fear that their presence will be taken advantage of by the company in an effort to install non-union men in the mill?"

"I do not think so. Governor Pattison has said that the militia are not to be used as guards, and he is not sending them here for that purpose. They will be kept here a few days, and when it is seen how peaceful everything is, I predict they will be withdrawn. The sheriff has been insisting he cannot keep the peace, and I suppose it has been finally determined to send the troops here to see how necessary they are. They will be received with respect. Our fight was against the Pinkertons—against invasion of our homes by an armed illegal and disreputable private army."

Hugh O'Donnell, the leader of the strikers, was seen at midnight. "I cannot believe it, I cannot believe it," he repeated, when informed that Gov. Pattison had ordered out the militia. His recent interview with the governor was evidently fresh in his mind, and he could not credit the report that in 24 hours Homestead would be the bivouac of 8,000 militiamen and the reign of the strikers an era of the past.

Midnight Meeting Held.

Shortly after midnight a hurried call was sent out for a meeting of the advisory committee to consider the attitude which should be assumed toward the militia. The intention is that the committee shall take definite action and that the great army of strikers shall be called upon to observe implicitly the recommendations of the committee. The meeting is being held at a private residence, behind closed doors, as it is expected that the troops will arrive early in the day, however.

It was rumored here last evening that a meeting was held in Pittsburg by representatives from all the Carnegie mills, and the report ran further that the decision was reached to strike in all the other properties in which Carnegie was interested unless justice was done to the men at Homestead.

THE WORKMAN'S SIDE.

Homestead Strikers Reply to the Statement Made on Behalf of the Carnegies.

Homestead, Pa., July 11.—The following statement has been given out by the Homestead iron and steel workers:

Homestead Employes' Answer to the Carnegie Company.

The differences existing between the Carnegie company and their employes at Homestead have drawn from Mr. H. C. Frick a statement of the points in dispute, which make it necessary to reply in order that wrong impressions of the conditions may not be received by the public.

It is asserted that the employes, combined with others of their trade forming the Amalgamated association, wish absolute control over the Homestead works. This charge can only be supported to the satisfaction of those who deny the right of the employe to enter objection to any conditions offered by the employer. The workingmen at Homestead, or any other of the hundreds of mills organized into the Amalgamated association, have no desire to dictate the wages they shall receive; but they see no good reason why they should not exercise the privilege of engaging with their employer in the controversy through which the rate of compensation for their labor is fixed.

The workmen are now, as they always have been, prepared to meet the representatives of the company and discuss the provisions contained in the scale submitted to them. If the conference already having been held failed to bring about a settlement, it cannot be said that this was the fault of the workingmen.

Scale and Basis of Wages.

The scale under which the men at Homestead were working was arranged in July of 1889. The rate of wages was fixed according to the selling price of 4x4 Bessemer steel billets, the wages advancing and declining with the selling price of that article. It was provided that the minimum should be $25. Complaint is made that no minimum should have been insisted upon. It is the experience of the iron and steel workers that some prevention is necessary to protect themselves from being reduced to an extremely low rate of pay, by the acceptance by manufacturers of sales below current rates. As the workingmen do not sell the product, there must be a point where reduction in wages by reason of low-figured sales shall cease.

It is alleged that labor organizations are injurious alike to the toilers and those by whom they are employed; in substantiation of which it is cited by the firm that there is no organization amongst their employes at Braddock nor Duquesne steel mills; that the men are satisfied; that they get good wages, and that no strike has occurred at those works since the institution of that management. It may be said that the satisfaction of which Mr. Frick speaks as existing at the above works is obligatory rather than voluntary, as may be proven by the many efforts of the men in these mills to organize themselves in secrecy. Knowledge of such intentions coming to the ears of the company would be, and is, followed by discharge.

How Wages are Fixed.

The wages enjoyed by the men at Braddock and Duquesne are the direct result of the rate of compensation sustained by the organized iron and steel workers. While they are not organized in these mills, the rate of pay for the class of work done by them is fixed by their organized fellow tradesmen, determines the pay that can command their services. It is the custom of the employers of non-union men in the iron and steel trade to pay the rates provided by the Amalgamated scale, in order to secure the services of men of that trade; it is found, however, to be invariably the case, that while these employers pay the rates provided by the Amalgamated association, the men are required to accept conditions which are tantamount to a reduced rate, although not appearing on the face. We have reason to believe that the non-union plants of Braddock and Duquesne can be proven no exception to this rule.

The introduction of improved machinery, to which reference is made by the company has displaced men that were necessary before the introduction of such machinery, and in this manner repays the cost of the investment. The output of a mill is always considered when arranging scales, and if an increase of output without the increase of labor to the workmen is brought about by improvements, there is every opportunity offered by the workmen to arrive through conference at an equitable rate; but when the employer refuses to engage in a discussion with the employe on this matter, all hope of a just settlement is lost.

An attempt is made to lead the public into the belief that the number of men affected by the reduction is few. Here again it becomes necessary to impress on the public mind the fact that there are three distinct propositions contained in the dispute, namely: A reduction in the minimum, another reduction in the proportionate rate of pay (thus making a double reduction), and that the scale terminate Dec. 31, 1893, instead of June 30, 1894. It must be understood that while all these propositions do not affect the whole of the Homestead workmen, few of the 3,800 employes of that place escape without being affected by one or more of its provisions. What does not affect one does affect another; and it might be said that instead of the company's proposal altering the conditions of employment of 325, the charge is general, and the whole are involved.

Advantages of the Carnegie Mills.

It is stated by the company with much force that it is not their desire to reduce their workmen below others. The cost of production to the Carnegie company at Homestead is decidedly in favor of the company as compared with mills of that character. It can now be shown that they cannot establish a complaint in that direction. In arranging scales of wages to govern iron and steel workers there are innumerable things which must receive attention, if justice must prevail. The intricacies referred to are such as to render liable erroneous views to be drawn by those not familiar with the trade, from their discuss on in the public press. There can be no legitimate reason why the Carnegie company should deny to their Homestead workmen a conference, where the things of which they complain could be analyzed, and if found unjust, made right. The men make no fairer proposition than this, for the simple reason that none fairer is possible.

If argument and honest reasoning were substituted for the reserve and coldness of manner, as seen in the company's present attitude, there could be reason to expect an end of this deplorable state of affairs. Does it not seem strange that the Carnegie company looks with distrust upon the organization of its Homestead employes, while at several of its large mills it has for several years encouraged the organization of the men, and at this moment they are getting along satisfactorily together? Surely it will not be charged that the men at Homestead are less intelligent or less entitled to those rights which are the principles of organized labor, and which are inseparable from their citizenship.

There are none who regret the lamentable occurrences of the past few days more than those whom the Carnegie company charges with having been instrumental in bringing them about.

NO MORE PINKERTONS.

So Say the Authorities of Pittsburg—They Will be Arrested.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 11.—Mayor Gourley, of this city, accompanied by Chief Brown, of the department of public safety, held a long conference Saturday with Mr. H. C. Frick, chairman of the Carnegie Steel Co.

The purpose of this meeting was not made public until yesterday. Mr. Frick was informed by the city officials that should be bring any more Pinkertons or other armed men to this city, either in a body or singly, they would be immediately arrested, held for trial and their weapons seized.

It is said that Mr. Frick told the mayor that it was not his intention to bring more Pinkertons here.

REFUSED AGAIN.

The Amalgamated Association Wanted to Re-Open Negotiations.

Pittsburg, July 11.—Secretary Lovejoy, of the Carnegie Steel company, said to the United Press reporter this morning: "The peace committee appointed by the employes in the union mills at their meeting last evening called on Mr. Frick this morning. They were received and presented requests that Mr. Frick would reopen negotiations with the Amalgamated association officials at Homestead and asked for an early conference. Mr. Frick positively declined to treat with the law-breakers. The committee quietly withdrew."

In answer to the question: "What will be your next move after the militia are quartered at Homestead?" Mr. Lovejoy said: "I can not answer that in detail. We have our plans outlined. We want possession; then we will start the works. We feel satisfied that fully two-thirds of our old employes at Homestead will go back to work as soon as we can assure them of protection. We will then fill the places of the leaders and the other turbulents with outsiders. We have applications from about 2,000 outside, new people for employment at Homestead, but peaceable citizens of Homestead will be given the preference. The leaders will then be taken care of by the district attorney. We do not intend to employ any more Pinkerton men, but I do not care to discuss our plans for future protection, in event of the National Guard being removed earlier than, in our judgment, might be thought advisable."

THEY KNEW THEIR BUSINESS.

One of the Pinkerton Guards Interviewed by a Bee

Upper Sandusky, July 11.—(Special)—A Bee correspondent rode 12 miles Saturday with one of the ill-faring detectives from Homestead. He was returning to Chicago, his home, on No. 1, the westbound mail of the Pittsburg, Ft. Wayne & Chicago railway, and the ride with him was had between here and Forest. He was one of those who had escaped from the barges unscared but who suffered in running the gauntlet of the infuriated populace after the surrender. His head was badly cut and was done up in a large bandage. He said he left Chicago for Homestead Sunday night with a number of others. All knew where they were going and what for.

When queried about statements by others that they were misled, he said nothing but smiled.

He was not in a talkative mood and only made replies to questions, the gist of the information obtained from him being that the Pinkerton's had orders not to fire unless jeoparized; that they were fired upon long before reaching Homestead; that no shooting was done by them until their leader was injured; that nobody was killed on the boats and that no one jumped overboard or suicided.

The work of the strikers, after the surrender, in so brutally beating and torturing them, was as published. He had all the experience he wanted and looked badly broken up. In the coach ahead were three or four more Pinkertons. They looked tougher than he, although one had escaped without a scratch; one had his upper lip gashed and badly swollen and the other's face was black and blue. They could not be induced to talk, even denying being detectives.

Pinkerton Says So, Too.

New York, July 11.—Robert A. Pinkerton, the chief of the New York bureau of the detective agency, when seen at his office in Exchange place, said: "Among the most absurd stories is the yarn about our deceiving the men whom we sent to Homestead. They knew, every one of them, where they were going. They knew that they were to go the Carnegie works

Ravachol Is a Terror No Longer.

Execution of the Notorious Anarchist This Morning.

He Meets His Death With a Tirade of Blasphemy on His Lips—No Sympathy Expressed.

Montbrison, July 11.—M. Diebler, popularly and facetiously known as "M. De Paris," the public executioner, arrived here from Paris at 5 o'clock Sunday evening and at once began preparations for the execution of the notorious Ravachol. The scaffold was erected in a public place, about 60 metres from the prison. Ravachol could plainly hear the carpenters in its construction.

About 4 o'clock this morning Ravachol, who had fallen asleep in spite of his knowledge that his death was imminent, was aroused and notified that his time had come. He assumed an air of bravado and made a mocking reply. He rudely refused the religious offices tendered by the prison priest. He was dressed in the same clothes that he wore when arrested, and when his toilet was finished he commented laughingly upon his dudish appearance as being somewhat out of place on such an occasion.

After he had been securely bound, M. Berger, assistant to M. De Paris," cut away the prisoner's collar and shaved off his back hair. Ravachol joked with those around him and indulged in profane and indecent comments, but instead of creating the desired impression of indifference, he showed plainly that he was feverishly excited and hardly knew what he was saying.

These preparations completed, the prisoner was led forth from the prison, surrounded by a strong guard. It was dawn, and when Ravachol emerged from the gates his eyes fell upon a great crowd of people who had gathered to see him die. He was placed in the prison van, and hurried to the place of execution, around which a cordon of troops had been drawn. There were military pickets also throughout the town, but the precautions which had been taken to guard against disorder seemed wholly unnecessary as the crowd which had gathered was composed of mere curious sightseers and no sign of any anarchist sympathy with the condemned was visible. Their indifference was shown by the way in which they regarded the prisoner when he was brought to the guillotine. They looked upon him as upon some singular animal, and made no response to his words or gestures.

When the prison van reached the scaffold Ravachol was asked if he hesired to say anything. He replied that he would address the crowd, but instead of speaking he began to sing an incident song and danced to the refrain as well as he could with his ankles strapped. The officers in charge soon tired of this burlesque and gave the signal to M. Diebler. The executioners at once seized Ravachol, whereupon the latter's demeanor suddenly changed. He dropped his assumption of indifference, and struggled furiously, but was speedily overpowered and bore to the fatal block. Even while being tied down on the plank he continued his futile struggles, uttering meanwhile the foulest epithets and curses.

The indecent and blasphemous tirade was cut short by the swift descent of the knife, and at seven minutes past 4 o'clock the head of the notorious robber, incendiary and murderer rolled into the basket. The crowd witnessed the horrible sight with the same stolid indifference that had characterized their conduct throughout. There was none of irreverent hilarity common to Parisians on such an occasion and it was evident that no sympathy was felt for the man who had pretended to commit his crimes in the interest of the people.

BOLD ESCAPE

Of the Prisoners from an Iowa Jail—Two Recaptured.

Marshalltown, Ia., July 11.—Three inmates from the county jail sawed through the roof at 11 o'clock yesterday morning, lowered themselves by a rope looped around one of the chimneys and escaped in full view of at least 20 persons.

One of them, W. S. Wood, was recaptured. A second, Jack Harkaway, assaulted his pursuers with a razor, dangerously cutting a man named Nicholson. A force is still hunting for the third fugitive.

FREIGHT CAR COMBINE.

Big Manufacturers Form a Consolidation

In Michigan—Millions of Dollars Interested in the Deal.

New York, July 11.—An important consolidation of car manufacturing companies has just been effected under the corporate name of the Michigan-Peninsular Car company. It masses a capital of $8,000,000, exclusive of $2,000,000 first mortgage bonds. The companies entering the consolidation are the Michigan Car company, the Peninsular Car company, the Detroit Wheel company, the Michigan Forge and Iron company, and the Detroit Pipe and Foundry company. The business dates from 1864 for the Michigan Car company and from 1879 for the Peninsular Car company. These two companies are said to be the largest manufacturers of freight cars in the world, and heretofore have been in active competition.

The consolidation brings into life a freight car manufacturing combine on a par with the Pullman Palace Car company in the way of passenger car manufacture. The united concerns have been furnishing equipment to the Lake Shore, the Illinois Central, the Union Pacific, the New York Central, the Erie, the Atchison, and in fact all the principal railroad lines of the country. An idea of the magnitude of the operations may be gathered by the fact that the several companies have been employing about 5,000 men. The property owned covers about 81 acres of ground in Detroit, with buildings 78 in number. The working plant, real estate, etc., etc., are valued at nearly $6,000,000. The capacity of the combined companies approaches 100 cars a day. The net profits have been averaging, it is said, nearly $1,000,000 a year. The object of the combine is to reduce expenses and competition.

DOUBLE DUEL

That Resulted Fatally in Alabama—Brothers on Each Side.

Birmingham, Ala., July 11.—During a political discussion on board the steamer running an excursion party from Smoke Neck to Gadsden, two brothers named Dillard, got into a quarrell with two brothers named Green.

One of the Dillard brothers struck Bill Green, who grabbed Whitt Dillard, threw him to the floor and drew his knife. Dillard's brother ran up and in the scuffle Whitt Dillard was stabbed to the heart. One of the Green's lost a finger and an eye. Dillard is dying and one of the Green's was fatally wounded.

A COUNTY TREASURER'S DEFALCATION.

Little Rock, Ark., July 11.—Information received concerning the defalcation of Treasurer Fuller, of Logan county, develops a shortage of $10,000 with further investigation to be made. Fuller has made over all his property to his bondsmen, but this, it is said will not cover one-half of his shortage.

KILLED BY THE GOLD CURE.

Delphos, July 11.—(Special)—Al Norton well known here and highly connected, died at the Lima gold cure institute Sunday afternoon from the effects of treatment for drunkenness. He had been a hard drinker and a dissipated character for many years. He leaves a large sum of money, of which he was only allowed the interest when living.

SHOT TO DEATH.

Execution of a Murderer in the City of Mexico—His Defiance.

City of Mexico, July 11.—Luciano Islas, who murdered his paramour and her mother some months ago, was executed in the presence of the officials and a few guests in Belon prison yesterday. The prisoner met his death firmly and refused strenuously to have his eyes bandaged.

He had to submit, however, as the regulations so ordained it, but the moment the prison wardens left his side he raised the bandage from his eyes and shouted defiantly to the soldiers to fire. A discharge followed, and though several bullets entered his body he was not killed by the first fire.

The sergeant advanced to give him the death blow, but his hand trembled and the bullet only grazed his head. A second and third shot were discharged before the quivering body became rigid in death.

KILLED A WOMAN WITH HIS FIST.

St. Louis, July 11.—In a drunken quarrel last night in the alley between Market and Walnut streets, Lawrence Noonan, a boiler, struck his paramour, Lizzie Butler, aged 32 years, a blow in the face with his fist. The woman fell to the floor and never recovered consciousness, dying an hour later. Noonan was arrested and claims the blow was accidental.

SCHOONER SUNK

By a Five-Hundred Pound Shot

Fired at the Sandy Hook Proving Ground—A Singular Accident.

New York, July 11.—The three-masted schooner Henry R. Tilden, commanded by Capt. Harris, bound to Philadelphia from this port in ballast, was sunk three miles off Sandy Hook Saturday afternoon by a projectile weighing 500 pounds fired from a 10-inch gun with 210 pounds of powder from the United States proving grounds at Sandy Hook. On the schooner at the time were six men and Captain Harris. The men were all rescued by a steam launch belonging to Shepard Knapp, of this city, and late in the evening were landed at the docks of the Erie Railway company at Jersey City.

Capt. Frank Heath, of the United States army, who is in charge of the government proving grounds at Sandy Hook, made a statement relative to the sinking of the schooner Tilden when he landed at Governor's Island from the government tug-boat, Gen. Wood, at 6:30 this evening. He said: "As I am in charge of the proving grounds at Sandy Hook belonging to the United States government my duty takes me there almost every day. This afternoon, the day being fair, I determined to make velocity tests, using the 10-inch breech-loading gun recently delivered at the proving grounds and which is mounted on one of the new disappearing gun carriages made by the South Boston Pneumatic Manufacturing company. In making velocity tests we have set up in front of the gun two wire nets, each of which is connected by an electric wire to an indicator that accurately and clearly registers the time when the electric circuit is broken by the shot passing through the nets. The first net is set up 150 feet from the muzzle of the gun; the second the same distance from the first. When making a test for velocity with big guns it is invariably the rule to fire them as nearly as possible in a horizontal position.

"Between 1 and 2 o'clock we prepared to fire the first shot. The line of fire was due southeast and at the time the Scotland lightship could be clearly distinguished. There were several sailing vessels in the offing, all of which were off the line of fire as the gun was trained. To make doubly sure there were no vessels near the line of fire I have a man detailed to note the position at sea of all passing vessels. I have much to take up my attention and for that reason cannot watch each and every passing vessel. I always before ordering the shot to be fired look myself at the horizon and at the same time receive the report of the man at the lookout.

"The first shot was fired at 1:30, and passing through the nets, no other thought was given as to where it disappeared. At 2 o'clock the gun was ready for a second shot. The elevation was the same as in the first shot. The order was given to fire and again the projectile passed through both nets and went to sea. This was the shot that hit the Tilden, though at the time we did not know it, paying but little attention to where the shot went to after passing through the nets. Subsequently a third one was fired, all of the three being for velocity and not for elevation or to determine the range of the gun. No one at the proving grounds noticed that and not until the steam launch of Mr. Knapp came steaming in, having in tow the life-boat of the schooner, did we know of the disaster."

Capt. Heath was then asked as to how he could explain why if the Tilden was not in the direct line of fire it was possible for her to be hit. His answer was: "I have taken my observation and triangulated the position of the Tilden when she was hit, but as yet I have not worked them out. This I will say, however, from all I know the shot after passing through the second net struck one of the sand dunes down the coast and was deflected to the right, striking the stern of the Tilden. From my observations I am positive the vessel at the time was at least three-fourths of a mile to the right of the line of fire. I shall most certainly make a report of the matter."

"And in the meantime, Captain, will you still continue to test your guns to the danger of life and irrespective to shots being deflected by sand dunes?" was asked.

"Why should not I?" was the reply.

VETERANS' RETURN TO WASHINGTON.

The Grand Army encampment at Washington in September will be the occasion of the reunion of thousands of veterans who paraded in that city in 1865, after the grand review following the surrender at Appomatox and the capitulation of Richmond. Again, after a lapse of 27 years, thousands of veterans will march down Pennsylvania to be reviewed again by the president of the United States, members of his cabinet, and other distinguished personages. It will be a spectacle seldom equaled in the magnificence of the display and in the number of men participating. Excursion tickets to Washington via the Baltimore & Ohio railroad will be sold by all the roads in the west at exceedingly low rates. The chief delight of the trip to Washington will be the journey via the picturesque Baltimore & Ohio, which crosses the Allegheny mountains and for 250 miles traverses territory fraught with the most thrilling incidents of the war. For more detailed information as to time of trains, rates, and sleeping car accommodations apply to L. S. Allen, Asst. Gen. Passenger Agent, The Rookery, Chicago. Upon application, Chas. O. Scull, Gen. Passenger Agent, Baltimore, Md., will send free of charge a handsomely illustrated Guide to Washington.

COTTON GROWING IN RUSSIA

Not Far Enough Advanced to Cause Trouble for American Planters.

London, July 11.—Dr. Thomas Heenan, United States consul at Odessa, is now at Tashkend, awaiting the cotton flower ing before drawing up his report on the condition and prospects of Russian Central Asiatic plantations for the Washington government.

"From what I learn privately from Samarcand letters," writes the Daily News correspondent, "Americans have little to fear as yet, at all events, from the competition of Russian cotton. An irrigation system of no small magnitude is necessary for any considerable cultivation of cotton in that region, and in the most favored sections now occupied with this particular industry the plant is said to lose much of its vitality in maturing. A large portion of the czar's private estate on the Marchab is experimentally being brought under cultivation.

Lively Races at the Expo. Grounds This Week.

The Features for To-Morrow—Large List of Entries—Great Sport Ahead—Dog Races As Extras.

The first event of the summer meeting of the Toledo Driving Park association opens to-morrow for a series of races continuing for four days.

The management has not spared pains or expense to make this meeting one of the most successful and entertaining of any ever held in this city.

Thousands of dollars have been expended on the track, and there is not a course in the country that will excel it in speed. The grounds have been improved and beautified in many ways. Some of the best speeding blood in the country has been booked, and indications point to a lively and well-attended meeting.

The races started to-morrow will be, a 2:28 trot, 2:45 pace, and a running race, half mile heat.

A special will be introduced each day, in the shape of dog races, to take place between each heat.

The following are the entries for to-morrow's races, the purse being $500 on the trotting and $400 on the pacing:

Professional Notes.

Columbus tuned up Omaha on Saturday, 11 to 2.

Toledo was defeated by Kansas City on Saturday in an errorless game. Score, 7 to 3.

Jack O'Connor, the Columbus catcher, was married to Miss Cora Hunt on Saturday, at Cleveland.

Cincinnati scooped two games from New York Saturday, giving the club a good show for fourth place.

The new players' committee of the Western league has made the following assignment of players of the retiring Milwaukee and Ft. Wayne clubs: To Indianapolis, Ferson, Krieg, Burrell, Smith, Twitchell and Holland; to Minneapolis, Metz, Ward, Alvord, Sutcliffe, Dugdale and Gearli; to Kansas City, McGarr, Henry and James Donahue; to Toledo, Wadsworth and Cunningham. Widner, Roat, Donahue, Hogreve and Hamburg are left unassigned and subject to selection by any club in the Western league.

The Eighth Ward Browns defeated the Sweet Clovers yesterday by a score of 15 to 3. The feature of the game was Pecord's pitching for the Browns, striking out 15 men.

The Eighth Ward Browns have a record that cannot be produced by any other club in Toledo. They played five games and won them all.

The Auburndale Athletic base ball club challenges the Rodgers base ball club for a game of ball for Sunday, July 17, on the Auburndale grounds.

A game of ball was played between the Goulets and Ecks Saturday for $5 and a ball. The Goulets played such fine ball that the game was easily won. The score: Ecks 7, Goulets 13.

There will be a meeting of the Auburndale Athletic base ball club Wednesday evening at the usual place. All members are requested to attend, as business of importance will come up.

The Mascots challenge the Shamrocks for Sunday, July 17, on the Wabash grounds, for $1.50 a side, or any other club in the city under 16 years of age. If accepted answer through the Bee.

The Eighth Ward Browns challenge the Colts to a game of ball Sunday, July 17, on the St. Clair grounds, for $2.25 a side and the championship under 19 years, as we understand they claim it. Wm. Mynehen, manager.

The Sweet Clovers challenge any club in the city under 18 years for a game of ball Sunday, July 17, on the St. Clair grounds for $2.25 a side, the Cheyennes preferred. If accepted answer through Tuesday night's Bee. J. Steinman, manager.

The Heroes played two games yesterday—Heroes 8, Tigers 0; Heroes 9, Married Men 1. Beck and Powers was the battery in both games for the Heroes. The Heroes will hold a special meeting Wednesday night at U. Beck's house at 8 o'clock. U. Beck, manager.

The Sweet Clovers challenge any of the following clubs for a game of ball July 17: Speranzas, Pathfinders, Cheyennes, Foxes, Mascots, Ironville Unions or Colts, for $2.25 a side, on St. Clair grounds. Please answer in Wednesday's Bee. Jake Steinman, manager.

To Whom it May Concern: The Auburndale Athletic base ball club challenges either the Starrs, Rodgers, Hudsons or Emmets for a series of games, best two out of three or three out of five, to decide the championship of the city. If the Starrs claim they are champions let them come forward, and we are ready to meet them at any time. The Rodgers, Hudsons and Emmets will have the same opportunity. We will play either club or all for a stake from $2.50 up to $25 or more, the money to be put up between this date and the time set for playing the games. The games must be played on the Auburndale grounds, as no other grounds will be accepted. Wiltman, manager.

SPREAD OF THE CHOLERA.

Russians from Infected Districts Roam Through Persia.

St. Petersburg, July 11.

An outbreak of cholera has occurred in the Semnan and Yezd districts in Persia, and several deaths from the disease are already reported.

At Rosht and Enseli, towns of Persia on the Caspian sea, the local authorities complain that when a mail boat recently arrived at Enseli from an infected district the Russian consul refused to allow the Russian passengers to be quarantined and permitted them to proceed into the interior of the country without taking any precautionary measures to prevent possible infection.

The Disease in Russia.

There have been reported in Saratoff 40 new cases of cholera and 11 deaths from the disease. In Astrakhan 112 new cases have been reported. The hospital record in Astrakhan is incomplete. At Baku there have been 94 deaths outside the hospitals. There have been taken to the hospitals 179 new patients and 18 more deaths have occurred in them. At Tiflis seven new cases and two deaths are reported.

Special boards of health have been appointed for 38 districts in St. Petersburg. Two sanitary inspectors and a doctor will watch each.

It is rumored that, despite the efforts to prevent it, cholera has reached Moscow, where the total absence of sewerage renders the situation most dangerous. Several passengers on board the steamer Orinoco, bound from Astrakhan, from Niamni, died from cholera on the steamer.

Owing to the prevalence of cholera at Baku, the government offices have been transferred to Kasbari, 165 versts from Baku.

City Deserted.

Vienna, July 11.—Baku, where cholera in its severest form has been epidemic, is now practically deserted and its great petroleum factories and other industrial establishments are idle. The authorities seem incapable of devising or enforcing measures to check the progress of the disease and now the government officials and city council have fled from their posts, and joined the exodus of merchants and workmen which leaves Baku almost depopulated. The condition of the sick and of those who remain to care for them is deplorable.

TO FIGHT CHOLERA.

London Officials Discussing the Matter with Some Anxiety.

New York, July 11.—A dispatch from London says: In response to a summons issued by the local government board, a secret conference of all the health officers of the counties as well as the leading towns of the country, is being held in the parliamentary chambers at Whitehall to-day. Its object is to consider what steps should be taken to provide against an importation of cholera, and also to consider and agree upon methods of combating the plague in the event of it's gaining a foothold. The government officials are fully alive to the seriousness of the situation, and in taking time by the forelock are determined to use every authority vested in them by law to prevent its reaching these shores, or becoming epidemic in case their vigilance should prove unavailing.

PLAYING TENNIS.

Opening of a Great Tourney in Chicago—Large Attendance.

Chicago, July 11.—That the game of lawn tennis is rapidly growing in favor was evidenced this morning by the many carloads of people who went out to Riverside to witness the opening games of the annual tournament of the western department of the United States National Lawn Tennis association. All the crack players of the west were among the early departures, the cities represented including Milwaukee, Racine, Denver, St. Paul and Detroit, as well as Chicago, and the event, which will last through the entire week, promises to be the most brilliant tourney that the west has ever held. On arrival at the grounds the players chose as referee Louis V. LeMoine, and play was called at 2:45 p. m.

FALL OF THE BASTILE.

New York, July 11.—According to advices received by the French committee here, the anniversary of the fall of the Bastile will be celebrated on a very general scale by the sons and daughters of France throughout this country. The anniversary falls on Thursday next.

SUICIDED WHILE INSANE.

Fremont, July 11.—(Special)—David S. Rhodes, a farmer residing in Ballville township, committed suicide by shooting, some time this morning. He was found dead about 9 o'clock. It is believed that he was insane at the time, as he has been insane several times.

SERIOUS EXPLOSION

On Board August Belmont's Yacht Mineola.

New York, July 11.—There was an explosion on August Belmont's yacht Mineola at 10 o'clock yesterday morning while she was at anchor off the Corinthian yacht basin at Tompkinsville, Staten Island.

The steward, John P. Smith, was using a gasoline stove and it exploded, burning his face and hands. He jumped overboard in pain, but was picked up by Capt. Neilson, of the Corinthian Yacht club. All the interior and furniture in the yacht's cabin is ruined and her deck amidship is all started up. The skylight and binnacle were knocked overboard and it will take considerable time and expense to repair the yacht.

TIFFIN ITEMS.

Tiffin, O., July 11.—(Special)—Mayor Abbott and Upton F. Cramer, of this city, have been appointed election deputies by Secretary of State Poorman. The democratic members of the board will probably be J. F. Bunn, J. W. Leahy, and Dr. E. B. Hubbard, the members of the old board.

The new edifice of the Church of Christ was dedicated on Sunday, and $1,500 raised to pay off the indebtedness. President Zollars, of Hiram college, was present and assisted the pastor, Rev. B. J. Sawyer.

Baby

Your Baby: sick all last night—cross this morning; colic hurts; little hands clutch the air; the wee body twists, the tender stomach is big with flatulence.

Helpless! Hours before the doctor can come; what is to be done?

DR. HAND has the remedy for Baby. He had it 25 years ago, but it wasn't so well known then.

It stops colic short metre, gives the little one rest—gives the family a rest.

A little Book, illustrated, full of sense and suggestion, will be sent to any one in the land FREE. It tells you how to do your part in caring for Baby. DR. HAND'S COLIC CURE is 25 cents a bottle—it's worth $25 in an emergency. 25 cents in stamps gets it. If you want a trial bottle, or a free book, address

NATIONAL MINING CONGRESS

Delegates Beginning to Arrive at Helena.

The Free Silver Men Favor Some Independent Political Action.

Helena, Mont., July 11.—The National Mining congress, which opens here tomorrow, promises to be the largest gathering of the kind in the history of the country. Delegates have been coming in for the past three days, and already the hotels are crowded, and the boarding houses and private residences are being drawn upon, while a large proportion of the delegates are yet to arrive on the night and early morning trains.

Incident to the congress there will be a conference of representatives of the four silver states, Colorado, Montana, Idaho and Nevada, relative to the question of forming a political union.

G. S. Nixon, chairman of the national committee of the silver party of Nevada, has been on the ground for several days. He says that a silver electoral ticket has already been placed in the field in his state, and that it is next door to certain that at the coming conference the representatives of the same interest in Colorado, Montana and Idaho will decide upon a similar course.

All four states, he believes, can be carried for free silver, and in this event the independent silver electors would hold the balance of power in the electoral college. "Had the recent people's party convention at Omaha nominated a satisfactory man the free-silver element," he says, "would not have decided upon independent political action. While, however, we are satisfied with the silver plank of the platform we are not prepared to support an independent greenbacker, and hence we will make no attempt to organize on the lines of the people's party."

The convention will be held in the new auditorium, which has been built exclusively for convention purposes. The arriving delegates are being met by sub-committees of the Citizens' association, and escorted with honors to their respective headquarters.

THE SUICIDE IDENTIFIED.

Pauline Kuhn Turns Out To Be Anna Bolan, of Terre Haute.

The young girl who committed suicide Saturday afternoon at 934 Summit street by taking morphine has been identified as Miss Anna Bolan, of Terra Haute, Ind. Her father came on yesterday, and will take the remains home to-day. She was known by the name of Pauline Kuhn in Toledo.

JUDGE SALA

Refused to Give a Rehearing to the Little Miller Boys.

A number of prominent citizens called on Judge Sala this morning to intercede for a rehearing of the case against the little Miller boys recently sentenced to the reform school for theft. The judge thinks the punishment has been too brief, and says that when in his judgment the boys have thoroughly learned the lesson that the way of the transgressor is hard, the friends will be granted another hearing. Much sympathy is expressed for the parents, who are honest, respectable people.

PHOENIX LIKE

Neuhausel Bros. Will Rise from the Ashes.

The business of the enterprising firm of Neuhausel Brothers will rise, Phoenix-like, from the ashes right next door to the charred ruins of their former store, as they have leased the building occupied by the Van Noorden Bros. and will occupy it as soon as possible. Neuhausel Bros. will not lose over $12,000 on the stock as inventoried. The building was worth $60,000. Mr. White, the owner, had no insurance on it.

LABOR NOTES.

Little Business Transacted at Saturday and Sunday Meetings.

Typographical union, No. 63, met at Carpenters' hall yesterday. Reports from the delegates to the International convention were read and routine business transacted. The printers will march on Labor day.

Metal Polishers' union, No. 5195, meets at Rensch's hall this evening.

Meeting of the Building Trades council to-night in Tinners' hall.

International Machinists' union, No. 11, meets at Turley's hall this evening.

Tallymen's union, No. 5525, meets at Druid hall to-night.

The meeting of the Cigarmakers' union will be held to-night at Mulcahey's hall.

THE GRANITE CUTTERS.

Meet in Convention To-Morrow at the Builders' Exchange.

It is too warm to make burning speeches or enter into heated arguments, consequently the granite workers do not expect a large attendance at their convention, which opens to-morrow morning in the rooms of the Builders' Exchange. No program of exercises has been arranged and it is not likely much business will be transacted.

ROSE HILL ADDITION.

Very Successful Sale by Messrs. Ormond & Martin.

A successful special sale of lots in Rose Hill addition, East Toledo, was closed Saturday evening.

The sale was conducted by Messrs. John M. Ormond and James Martin. About 15 lots were sold at good prices. Other sales have been closed since, and the property is moving off lively.

Sarah J. Bartlett to-day sold lot 32, Glenwood addition, to T. A. Wuid, on which he will build a $3,000 residence.

SEYMORE ARRESTED.

In Chicago on a Charge of Embezzling Eight Hundred Dollars.

E. H. Seymore, the manager of the Adams Supply House, on Adams street, who left town suddenly a short time since, has been arrester in Chicago.

The supply company for which he worked has brought a charge of embezzlement against him, as it has been found that he lit out with something like $800 of the company's money.

Detective O'Brien left for Chicago this afternoon to bring him back.

THE MACCABEES.

Annual Convention of the State Body at Lakeside.

The seventh annual convention of the Knights of Maccabees of Ohio will convene at Lakeside to-morrow and continue over Wednesday. The local tents will be represented by a full corps of delegates. Besides the routine business which usually comes up, a platform meeting will be held in the auditorium Tuesday evening, at which addresses will be made by Supreme Commander Markey and Supreme Record Keeper Boynton, of Port Huron, Mich.; Great Record Keeper Seigle, of New York; Rev. T. F. Hildreth, D. D., of Norwalk; Sir Knight Rev. M. T. Ayers, of Lakeside, and Rev. C. W. Taneyhill, of Bryan.

THE PRESS CLUB PROGRAM

For the Excursion on the City of Toledo To-Morrow Evening.

To-morrow evening the much talked of Press club excursion comes off. The elegant steamer City of Toledo will leave the dock at 8:20 o'clock and go out to the lake. An excellent program of vocal and instrumental numbers has been arranged, as follows:

Mazurka in D—Toledo Mandolin club, Messrs. G. E. Collingwood, S. V. Thomas, R. P. Brown, B. F. Bliss, Harry Snell, J. S. Draper and Ed Clement.
Tenor solo—Mr. Geo. W. Leibius.
Humorous selection—Bert St. John.
Selection—O. and D. C. Banjo club, Maynard Kinney, Frank Baumgardner, Frank Galloway, Lyman Wheeler, Robert Cummings and Harry Cummings.
A Bit of a Duo—Chas. O'Brien and Geo. W. Stevens.
Solo, selected—Mr. Herman Hahn.
Grand finale—Male chorus, W. S. Stackhouse, accompanist.

A "ROCKY" SEASON

Predicted by C. A. King & Co.'s Boy Solomon.

In the daily grain circular issued by C. A. King & Co. is the following comment on an important current topic:

Our boy Solomon says he fears this will be a "rocky" season. Some sections will find the off-grade wheat difficult to handle profitably. Prices are 12 cents below a month ago and liable to touch 60 cents here in September if the Hatch bill, or one like it, should become a law. It would limit the demand to what exporters and millers are willing to pay. Nobody would buy on speculation, knowing that he could sell only to millers and exporters. The ordinary millers, who have most of their capital invested in their plants, would be able to compete with the Minneapolis millers' English syndicate about as well as the ordinary oil refineries are with the Standard Oil company.

The Hatch bill will be discussed in the senate next week. Some grain men think it might be a good idea to have some such bill pass, as the cranks will not be satisfied until they get a dose of the medicine the "political doctors" are trying to force against the best interests of the producers and the country generally. It would be a public calamity but would probably result in a speedy repeal at the winter session. The bill should be amended to take effect at some specified time and made airtight.

A number of Sunday school picnics will be held at Presque Isle this week.

The steamer Messenger has been chartered by Monroe parties to run between that point and Put-in-Bay to-morrow.

As the steamer Messenger was landing at the Ironville dock yesterday afternoon the soft plug in the crown sheet of the boiler gave way, which caused some excitement among the passengers for a time. As the fresh coal fire was drawn from the boiler a cloud of smoke was blown from the furnace door by the escaping steam, which gave the impression that the boat was afire. However, no damage of importance was done and the passengers were safely landed at Ironville. The steamer was not racing with the Douglas, as stated, as she left Monroe 45 minutes later than did the Douglas. She made her regular trips to-day.

EX-AUDITOR RUSSELL

Still the Subject of Controversy at Napoleon.

Napoleon, O., July 11.—(Special)—Political circles in Napoleon are considerably agitated over charges that have been made against our ex-auditor and postmaster, George Russell. The charges were formally submitted in cold-type form through the columns of the German Democrat of its last impression.

For some time since the office was turned by Russell over to the present incumbent complaint was made to the commissioners that somebody was in the office at night, without the knowledge of the auditor. It is alleged by two occupants of the court house that Russell came out of the commissioners' and auditor's room alone at a late hour at night some time since. Affidavit can and in all probability will be made to this effect.

There is also considerable condemnation of Russell from the fact that he has certain papers in his possession belonging to Henry county which he refuses to give up to his successor.

The papers are opinions of the prosecuting attorney which Henry county paid for. Still Russell refused and continues to refuse to surrender them to the rightful owner.

Prospects are favorable that both cases will develop into interesting suits.

RED MEN

Institute a New Lodge at Upper Sandusky.

Upper Sandusky, July 11.—(Special)—A new lodge of Improved Order of Red Men was instituted in this city with membership of 24. Grand Sachem of Ohio and Kentucky Inman Pierson, of Wooster, conducted the ceremonies and was assisted by Past Sachem Casper Batenstein, of Marion, together with a number of members of the lodge of that city.

The institution took place in the Knights of Honor hall, and was followed by a grand banquet. The following are the officers of the new lodge: Prophet, Frank Haskins; grand sachem, John Passeler; senior sagamore, Andrew Goundtesch; junior sagamore, Henry Kneuzl; keeper of wampum, J. A. Kirk; collector of wampum, F. E. Dumm; chief of records, W. B. Gordon; trustees, W. H. Stone, Jacob Myers and W. A. Saltsman; first senap, Joe Glorser, second senap, G. H. McLean; warriors, Jacob Myers, Geo. Rutter, Chas. Hutter and Chas. Liebenthal; guard of wigwam, George Scheck; guard of forest, Charles Allonis; braves, Tage Sylvan, Jeff Gamel, Ben Mosier and H. D. Hale.

Go to the races every day this week. The largest lot of running horses ever in Toledo.

NAPOLEON CYCLERS PARADE.

Napoleon, July 11.—(Special)—Napoleon's young cyclers gave a lantern parade Saturday night. Thirty expert wheelmen were mounted and made an imposing array. Hundreds of farmers were in town and witnessed the affair.

The dogs are trained and imported that are entered for the races this week. Don't fail to see them.

and guard them. In our contracts with the men certain papers are drawn up signed, which, in themselves, would have been sufficient to show the men what they are being engaged for. Besides most of the men were old hands with us, and knew fully well what strike work was. We have been engaged in this business for 20 years, and every one knows what is to be expected in such expeditions when a mob is to be faced. Then men whom we engaged were brought in by our old hands. The talk about advertising for recruits is all rot. No such advertisements were ever inserted, and before any of the men were taken on the papers had been full of the Homestead trouble for a week, so they all knew what was ahead for them."

GREAT PROTECTION

Does the Workingman Get From th Tariff—One Who Knows

London, July 11.—Among the Americans in London is Mr. John W. Bookwalter, of Ohio, who owns extensive works at Springfield, Ohio.

In the course of a conversation on the subject of the strike he said: "The democratic party could not have prayed for a better illustration of the sham of protection than that which is held up to them at Homestead. Carnegie had gone before congress for the past 20 years with his doctrine of protection; and like a good, subservient congress, it has always given him what he desired. He has advocated and received protection ad nauseam, but his theories, instead of proving a blessing to the workmen, who were first and foremost in his philanthropic mind, have found their practical answer in the bullets of Pinkerton's Winchesters.

"I, too, am a manufacturer on a scale," added Mr. Bookwalter, "and I send my products to compete with the markets of world. I am not staggering under the oppression of a protective tariff like Mr. Carnegie, but obliged to pay heavy duties on my raw material. Still, I am not called upon to enforce reductions in wages; simply because I am satisfied with reasonable profits."

SENDING RELIEF

to the Sufferers at St. Johns

Who Are Left Homeless by the Great Fire.

Food, Clothing and Tents Sent in Large Quantities—The Government Helping.

Halifax, N. S., July 11.—The citizens' committee forwarded 700 barrels of food supplies for St. Johns on the steamer Ululanda last night, for the sufferers by the fire. Also 35,000 feet of lumber. Archbishop O'Brien, General Ross and others promptly headed the relief subscription list. All the men in the garrison gave one day's pay. While the citizens' provisional committee were hard at work getting off supplies on the Ululanda, the navy authorities were not inactive. Gen. Sir John Ross had also forwarded by the Alaska tents and marquees to shelter some 15,000 people, as well as a quantity of blankets. The general also started a garrison subscription list.

Admiral Hopkins, although out of the city, gave telegraphic orders for the Blake to proceed to the scene of desolation and to forward such stores of provisions and canvass for tents as could be spared. The Emerald, now on the coast of Newfoundland, having on board six months' supplies of food for three warships, was also ordered to St. Johns. Half an hour after the Ululanda steamed down the harbor the lines were cast off from the Blake and that magnificent cruiser started for St. Johns, carrying a large quantity of flour, pork, beef, chocolate, split peas, sugar, etc., 500 blankets and 25 large new sails for erection into tents and capable of sheltering 2,000 to 2,500 people. It is believed the Blake will make the run in 30 hours and arrive at St. Johns at midnight. The conflagration was the subject of discourse in all churches yesterday. The Halifax committee solicit aid from all Nova Scotia towns. They propose to charter the steamer Havana and will despatch her on Wednesday with 6,000 barrels of food stuffs.

WAKE UP.

If you wake up in the morning with a bitter or bad taste in your mouth, Languor, Dull Headache, Despondency, Constipation, take Simmons Liver Regulator. It corrects the bilious stomach, sweetens the breath and cleanses the furred tongue. Children as well as adults sometimes eat something that does not digest well, producing Sour Stomach, Heartburn, Restlessness, or Sleeplessness—a good dose of Regulator will give relief. So perfectly harmless is this remedy that it can be taken by the youngest infant or the most delicate person without injury, no matter what the condition of the system may be. It can do no harm if it does no good, but its reputation for 40 years proves it never fails in doing good.

Wage and Protection.

The deplorable situation at the Homestead steel mills is an excellent object lesson on the subject of wage and protection—not shotgun and Winchester protection, but the pocket-book protective benefit of the republican tariff. It is admitted that the manufacturer who is favored by the tariff law does make money, millions of it from the operation of the law. Carnegie confesses to $40,000,000. Correlatively the employes should get rich, as this republican vote-catching cry of protection must be a profit sharing reality, else it is a sham, a pretence, a fraud.

The strike at Homestead is one of wage on the part of the Amalgamated association. On the part of Carnegie it is a question of wage reduction and destruction of union labor. This is the phase of the situation which becomes an object lesson. The mill owners are determined to break up the union. This accomplished they can cut down wages at pleasure, and pocket more millions of profit themselves. So, it is not the tariff which gives the men large wages, but the union which has stood as a stone wall against the greed of employers.

The tariff question is better understood by the masses than in 1888, and it is not now denied that the duty is added to the cost of manufactured goods and charged against the consumer. Directly every cent of the tariff goes to the manufacturer. If he is disposed, he may share his profits as he pleases, but there are no instances—not one, where, in consequence of the tariff, a manufacturer has advanced the wages of employes. Like Carnegie they have piled their thousands and millions to maintain an aggressive warfare against union labor whenever it has become necessary to preserve the profits undisturbed in the coffers of the men whose agencies bought the tariff schedule of congress.

Whatever conditions of wage in this country are better than in other nations is due almost wholly to labor organization, and is entirely foreign to tariff laws. Whatever conditions of life are better is due to our republican form of government which makes every citizen a sovereign, a man among men, where the highest honors and the most exalted stations are within the possible reach of the humblest.

The tariff is an onerous tax upon labor and industry, an immeasurable benefit to individuals like Carnegie, who is a type of the whole class.

In excessive tariff there is oppression and extortion. In organization there is real individual benefit. And herein is the fraud of the alleged tariff protection exposed: A tariff that compels labor organization to obtain for itself a tithe of its share is a sham—a cloak to cover the profits of the employer. The Homestead trouble should be taken home to every man who has a trade, for self analysis. On one side put the advanced wages which have been received in consequence of the tariff. On the other put the effort of organized labor. Draw a balance, and tariff will disappear. Make another entry. On one side put the alleged tariff benefit to you. On the other side put the extra cost of home articles of necessity—this year it amounts to nearly sixty per cent of first cost. Draw a balance, and tariff cost will swamp tariff benefit. Against the tariff cost in every family, there is not the smallest per cent of benefit from an increase in wages. The whole scheme is a fraud. Labor is imposed upon every day of the year by the republican politicians. There are no compensating benefits in a tariff which, in one mill, makes Carnegies and men who have to fight for their homesteads. The two do not mix and cannot prosper under the operation of the same law.

Correct on One Count.

In one instance, at least, the hater of organized labor who is at the head of the Carnegie trust, is correct. He says, in an interview:

This is not a matter in which the protective tariff is involved; and every intelligent man, whether he be manufacturer or employe, is aware of the fact.

This is Manager Frick's testimony, that the tariff is in no manner connected with the fixing of labor wage in his highly protected industry, and Mr. Carnegie has boasted that he can undersell England in her own markets. Will somebody please say why, then, a 60 per cent. tariff is placed on over one hundred listed articles of iron and steel.

The published price lists of manufacturers may show where the benefit comes in, who receives it and who contributes it. In all these highly protected goods—farmers' machinery, implements and tools—the price list made for competition with the pauper labor of Europe, in their own markets, is a third lower and in some cases a half less, than the schedule for the American buyer. Mr. Frick is correct, the tariff has nothing to do with fixing the wage scale, the trust does that, but it has much to do with the employers' profits.

"Pirates and Buccaneers."

Lucius B. Swift is editor of the Civil Service Chronicle. He voted for Mr. Harrison. In a recent number of his news journal he says:

We have devoted much space this month to uncovering the motive power which successfully operated the republican national convention beginning at Minneapolis June 7. The spoils system was in its full fruition. The successful candidate was successful because, through his henchmen, he had the convention literally by the throat. One hundred and forty place-holders, at the lowest estimate, had votes. On the best authority, at least three thousand other place-holders gathered around, and bore down opposition. All these were led by a place-holder who makes thirty or forty thousand dollars a year out of his place, and who came specially from London for this purpose. The whole was superintended by the President, who had wires connecting the White House with the convention, and who, as the Indianapolis Journal puts it, was busy 'sending and receiving communications from the seat of war.' It is to be hoped that our United States executive government has now reached its lowest point of degradation. It would not seem that political pirates and buccaneers could get or would want greater power.

In the warfare at Homestead, Secretary Elkins foresees reasons, perhaps, for asking that the standing army be increased. It has a bad sound in this boasted country of freedom and equal rights for all men, added to and fortified by continual tribute (according to theory) from all foreign nations with which we have deal. Then, (according to profession) we believe and teach the doctrine of charity for all, malice towards none; the settlement of inter-national disputes by arbitration and proclaim our land an asylum for the oppressed of all nations. With these lovely theories inscribed on our banners and proclaimed from the housetops, what do we want with a large standing army?

If any confession in the matter was needed or possible to anticipate, it is here: it is dinned into the ears of the country that a high protective tax has made the iron and steel business of Pennsylvania the most extensive of its kind in the world. Now, in view of the labor uprising at Homestead, it is affirmed by the same republican authority that protection has nothing to do with the wage scale of the men employed there. Both of these assertions are correct, but the high tax campaigner will not like to see them side by side.

The protectionist organs are saying "if we can keep politics out of the Homestead trouble, it can be settled." If we can keep politics out of the campaign, perhaps the republican party can succeed. It is the republican party with its unjust legislation, that has plunged the Pennsylvania iron and steel factories knee-deep into politics, and when the logical result arrives they show the cowardice of tricksters and dare not meet it.

Two thousand Columbus workingmen met in the state house yard near Gov. McKinley's executive office, and protested against the Carnegie methods which, under the guise of a protective tariff, enrich the employers and make the employees fight for their homes.

Chauncey Depew, Whitelaw Reid and John Wanamaker all delivered addresses at the Y. P. S. C. E. convention in New York. These were little anchors to the windward, but every little helps.

FROM THE ORIENT.

Anti-Christian Feeling Growing in Many Parts of China.

Vancouver, British Columbia, July 11.—Advices by the steamship Empress of China from Yokohama state that the radical organ Jigu has been suppressed by the imperial Japanese authorities for writings of a seditious character.

A new Japanese cruiser has just been launched.

The recent flood in Fukushina submerged 1,000 houses, swept 600 bridges away, drowned 35 persons and inundated 4,000 acres of rice.

News comes of serious trouble in Corea. There is a person called the Tai in Kun, uncle of the king of Corea, who has for some time been credited with pro-Russian tendencies. Some Coreans threw a couple of bombs into his rooms and wrecked the place, but did not injure the prince. A Japanese gunboat has been there, sent to protect national interests.

Hong Kong advices of June 28 state the probability of a general renewal of the anti-Christian demonstration in the Yang Tse valley. The "Literati" are still energetically doing what they can to stir up the people against the hated foreigners, and their efforts in this direction are more frequently encouraged than checked by the officials.

At Ching Kiang recently there were threats of the destruction of the Roman Catholic and other mission buildings and of the wholesale murder of missionaries and foreigners generally. The authorities considered it advisable to interfere, and the danger was thereby averted for a time.

A feeling of security among foreign residents is still far from being restored. There is a good deal of incendiary talk of an anti-Christian character at Wusieh. As usual, the principal charge made against the missionaries is that of kidnaping children. At Shanghai when two American ladies were out driving a Chinaman rushed up to the carriage and spat at the occupants and afterwards threw stones at them, one lady being struck on the arm.

Tea-growers are being exhorted by emissaries of the "Literat," to pull up the plants and grow sweet potatoes instead, so that it will not be necessary for them to trade with the "foreign devils."

ANTS DESTROYING A VILLAGE.

They Eat Away the Wooden Beams Until the Houses Collapse.

London, July 11.—For some time past random reports have appeared of a strange condition of things at the French town of La Rochell, where the inhabitants were pictured sitting about in groups and uncertainty watching their houses fall in and their worldly possessions buried in the debris. The people in this peaceful village were suddenly awakened to the presence of some terrible mystery when one night, during a modest banquet at the home of the cure, the upper stories of the building suddenly gave and not only ruined the French dishes of the hostess, but covered the guests with a choking cloud of plaster. Before the astonishment that had paralyzed the entire neighborhood was overcome another house fell in with precisely the same symptoms. And so it continued, one house after another would give way and disappear.

It has now been discovered what has caused all this destruction, and it is no greater object than a diminutive white ant which has invaded the place in multitudes and confined its attacks to the beams of the houses. These were eaten entirely through. The prefecture has ordered all the wooden beams torn out of their property and substitute those of iron

FOOLED THE FIRM.

The Manager Gets the Profits and They Can't Get It Back.

Washington, July 11.—The firm of Lynn, Hill & Heath, bookmakers, in settling their accounts last Thursday, found that there was a balance of $11,400 in bank, but upon inquiry at the bank it was ascertained that this sum had been withdrawn by Mr. Frank Barnard, the general manager of the firm.

An investigation was made and it was discovered that the receipts of the firm from July 4th were also missing, which makes the sum about $13,000. Barnard has been in the employ of the firm about seven years, and the members of the firm being absent from the city on various occasions, the money was deposited in his name.

Barnard secured the services of an attorney, who informed him that as the money was made in an illegitimate business and was practically under his control, there was no law to punish him. The firm will probably take no action at law.

DEATH OF A BARON.

THE BIG HOTEL VICTORY

WILL OPEN TO-MORROW

With a Banquet Lasting All Afternoon,

At Which There Will be a Large Crowd

From All Parts of the Country—Brief Sketch of the Undertaking—What Pluck and Energy Can Do.

When J. K. Tillotson, president of the Put-in-Bay Hotel company, announced that he proposed erecting the largest and finest hotel in the world at Put-in-Bay people laughed at the apparent absurdity of the project.

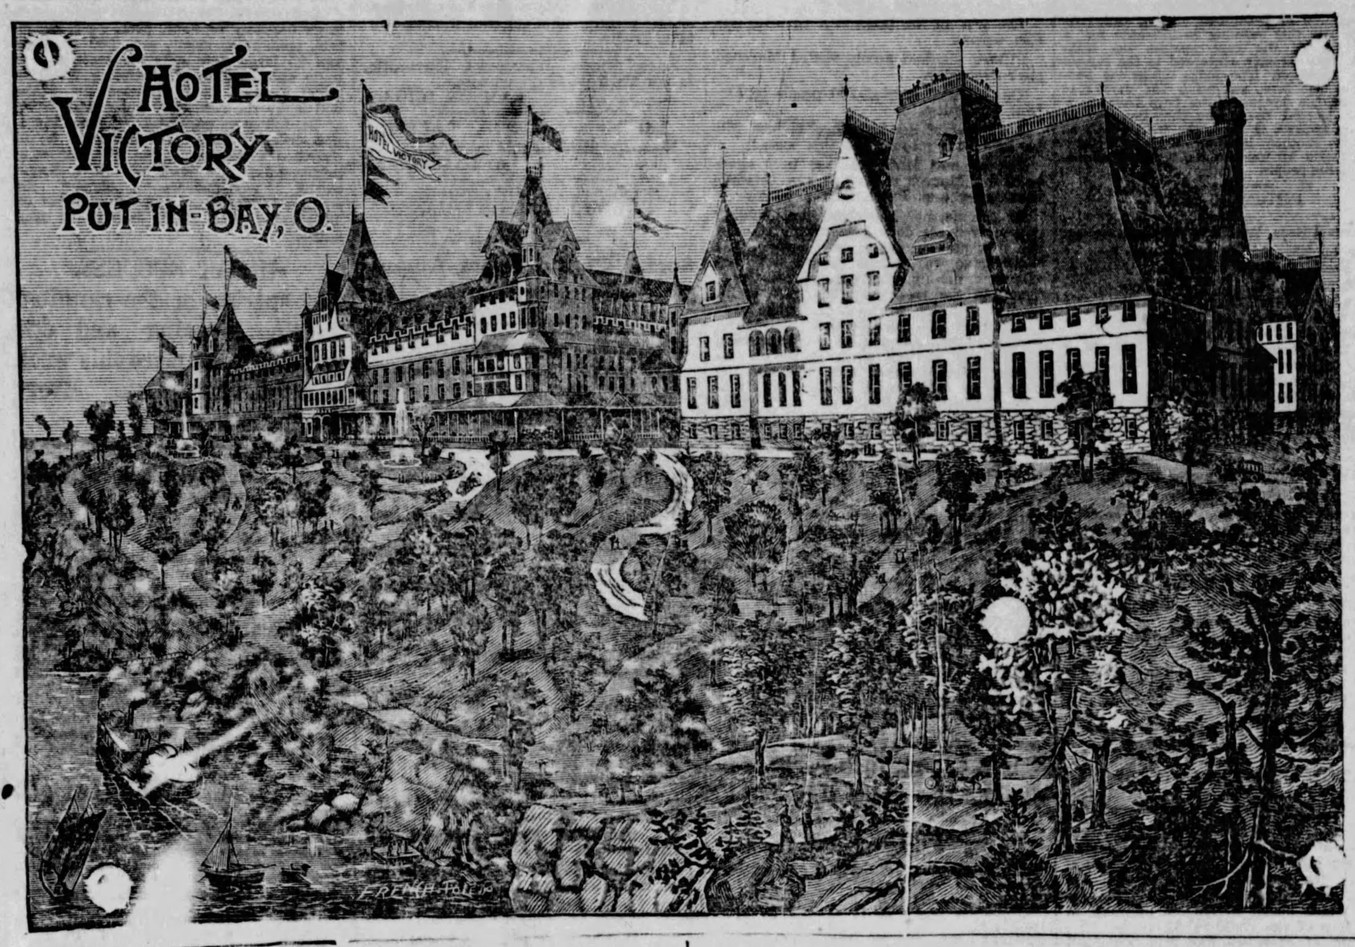
It was an undertaking so enormous that even his warmest friends shook their heads and warned him against an enterprise that, while unique and perhaps feasible, was altogether impracticable.

There were a thousand and one barriers to overcome, any one of which would have swamped the energies and ardor of an ordinary man. But Tillotson is no ordinary man. None but a genius could erect and operate such an institution as he has established at Put-in-Bay—without money or assistance save his own, remember—but a genius of an unusually high order and grade.

Tillotson has not only succeeded in erecting a mammoth hotel, but he has established an institution that promises to become the popular summer rendezvous of the great lakes. In thus attracting strangers to this section of Lake Erie, he has incidentally performed a great service to Toledo, Detroit, Cleveland, Sandusky and other cities.

The hotel is in full operation, and the grand opening and banquet given tomorrow will see more people at Put-in-Bay than has ever been seen there before.

The location is a most beautiful one. Of course it will require considerable time and a great deal of labor before the establishment and its surroundings will look as "finished as an English demense," but just as it is, it is a picture of natural loveliness that has no equal in the chain of lakes.



The Official Staff.

The roster of officers is one of the largest and most efficient that has ever been employed in an institution of the kind. Henry Weaver, who has established the reputations of more first-class hotels in the west than any man living, is the manager. He has for assistants:

A. W. Carver, chief clerk.
J. Frank Davidson, room clerk.
J. J. Ryder, cashier.

The Hotel.

The Put-in-Bay Hotel company, realizing that Put-in-Bay has all the advantages and attractions to make it a great pleasure resort, and believing that to commence right was the surest way to success, determined to build a hotel so large, magnificent in all its proportions and fittings, that it would at once attract the attention and command the patronage of the better class of people of all the vast territory tributary thereto. In accordance with this idea, plans were made and executed for a hotel second to none in the world in size and general excellence. Hotel Victory as it stands completed and about to open its doors to the public, is 600 feet long by 400 feet deep, covering nearly six acres of ground. Its main portion surrounds a court 300 feet square. The section to the extreme right is the main dining room, which is 155 by 85 feet, and is 32 feet between floors. This room is capable of seating 1,000 persons; while back of it is located the kitchen, servants' quarters, etc. In addition to the main dining room there is a ladies' ordinary, a children's and nurses' dining room, and a private banqueting room—the combined dining room capacity being over 1,500 guests at one sitting. The hotel contains 600 guest chambers, grand parlors, with numerous private parlors and reception rooms, and a large amusement hall, with a stage and necessary adjuncts for the entertainment and amusement of guests; a private library, reading room, and billiard room for ladies. It has been fitted and furnished throughout with every modern improvement for the comfort and convenience of guests, including elevators, electric lights, etc. The management of Hotel Victory will be liberal, with the best and most capable hotel men obtainable in charge of every department. The national reputation of Mr. Henry Weaver, the manager, insures the public a thoroughly first-class hotel in every respect.

The Electric Railroad.

The electric railroad is finished. The cars were on the tracks yesterday, and it is expected will be in operation tomorrow. The cars are large, roomy and open. They are built somewhat after the style of steam railroad cars, and two somewhat high steps are climbed in order to secure a seat. Only one line is finished, but the work will be pushed to rapid completion.

As a necessary adjunct to Hotel Victory, the electric railroad was built from the steamboat landings to Victory Park and Hotel Victory. Although constructed by the Put-in-Bay Electric Railroad company, a separate incorporation, it is under the same control and management as Hotel Victory and will be operated for the convenience of guests of Hotel Victory and the cottages of Victory Park. The railroad will consist of two lines, both running from the steamboat landing to the hotel and park; one along the lake front via Peach Point, and the other around Perry's Cave. Trains will be run alternately, one going via Peach Point, returning via Cave; the next going via Cave and returning via Peach Point. The road is equipped with the very best and most modern appliances for speed, comfort and safety and convenience. During the busy time of the day a train of two cars will be run every five minutes, and at all times, trains will be run so as to afford rapid and comfortable transit. This road is one of the attractions of the place, as the route is exceedingly picturesque and attractive, and the large open cars give ample opportunity for enjoyment of the scenery.

The Steamer City of Toledo.

The new steel steamer was launched for the Toledo and Island Steamboat company, in 1890, and commenced her regular duties as a first-class excursion boat in 1891, taking the route between Toledo and Put-in-Bay. Having as she does the latest improved engines, she is among the swiftest on the lakes. The steel used in her construction is of the best, and goes to make her one of the strongest. The length is 225 feet, width over all is 52 feet, and she has a capacity for carrying passengers to the number of 1,500. The boat is lighted with the best electric system. The crew are gentlemen, and treat the passengers politely and courteously. The steamer leaves the foot of Madison street, on a schedule purposely arranged to enable the excursionists to have many pleasant hours at the island.

A NEW CHURCH

Is What the Unitarian Congregation Will Build.

A Committee Appointed to Formulate Plans—The Building to be Erected at Once.

The congregation of the Unitarian church will build an elegant new church, to be ready for occupancy before winter.

About a year ago this congregation resolved to build a house of worship, and the members went to work at once to push the proposed project to a successful consummation

The various committees have been untiring in their efforts, and the members were liberal in their subscriptions, and the result is that over $8,000 have been subscribed.

A short time ago the trustees bought a lot on the corner of Ashland avenue and Prescott street for which they paid $5,000. On this site a church building to cost not less than $10,000, will be erected.

The congregation held a meeting at Memorial hall annex yesterday for the purpose of discussing the project and the next step to be taken. A committee consisting of Rev. A. G. Jennings, A. J. Rummel and Mrs. Judge Harmon was appointed to formulate plans to submit to the architect giving an idea of what is wanted by the congregation.

Architect Webster has submitted plans.

SUED FOR LIBEL.

A Lawyer Wants Big Damages from a Wauseon Paper.

Wauseon, July 11.—(Special)—Last Saturday the defendants in the case of Seth Baldwin v. Sherwood & Williams, publishers of the Northwestern Republican, of this place, were duly served with summons. During the first of June last Sheriff T. F. Williams, of this place, and Sheriff Baldwin, of Adrian, Mich., arrested one Camp near Adrian, on the charge of a misdemeanor committed in this county.

It has long been the custom between the officers of Ohio and Michigan to help one another in this manner, and no one has ever taken occasion to thwart this exchange of courtesies, until in this case, when Bean caused the arrest of Williams. Bean's cup of joy was soon spilled by the promptness of friends to bail Williams.

The Republicacn in an article on the subject alluded to the lawyer as a pettifogger and hinted that "fees" was what prompted him to overstep the bounds of reciprocity.

Bean places the damages to conscience, reputation, etc., at $25,000, and for that amount asks judgment in the United States court at Toledo.

LOVE AND BUNCO.

He Wanted to Marry but She Only Wanted His Money.

Tiffin, O., July 11.—(Special)—A peculiar case of mingled love and bunco business has come to light in Adams township. Week before last a middle-aged man, giving his name as Henry Thiets, of La Junta, Colorado, took up his abode at the home of Bill Harris. Haris' daughter-in-law, Mrs. Mary Harris, who is a widow and who makes her home with Harris, had struck up a correspondence with Thiets through a matrimonial paper, and he was here for the purpose of marrying her as agreed upon. She postponed the matter, and while a visitor at the house, Thiets became satisfied that the relations between the old man and the object of his own affections were such as to forbid her suggestion of taking the old man to live with them in the west.

Friday, Thiets missed $100 and $300 mortgage from his pocket, and ascertained that the woman had stolen them. He placed the matter in the hands of Prosecutor Schroth of this city, and the woman has been notified to return the property.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

AN OPEN LETTER

To the Park Commissioners and to the Toledo City Council

A report comes to the public that the park commissioners have at last decided on the purchase of a tract of 280 acres of land west of Toledo and five miles from the river, as a park site on which to expend a few hundred thousand dollars of the people's tax money.

For about two years the question where to buy land, for park purposes, that would satisfy public expectations, has been considered by the park commisisoners. It has leaked out that a "Park Expert," Mr. H. W. S. Cleveland, of Chicago, has been advised with, and his advent in Toledo was also announced as a secret, which the Sunday Journal had unearthed, and discovered.

It has also been pretty well understood through numerous evidences of public opinion elicited by the city press in recent years, that there is an almost universal feeling in the public mind that all expenditures of public money for park purposes should be made within the city and near the great center of it; near the Maumee river; and that such expenditures of money should be where they will do the people the most good now and in the near future.

The site reported to have been chosen for the transfer of $112,000 of the city's money is mostly in the valley of Ten Mile creek, adjoining the old Indiana road (now Bancroft gunimorf.ckfizf ETS between Toledo and Sylvania. Its improvement, and a suitable avenue to it, would involve the expenditure of many hundred thousand dollars more, outside the limits of the present city incorporation. That this tract of ground is "capable of great improvement" for park use is evident. I have nothing to say against the land. I know it well. Like 10,000 other acres in the valley of Ten Mile creek, all the way from this Ketcham land to Lake Erie, it is capable of absorbing all the money that can be put on it. Any "expert" landscape gardener with millions at his disposal could have no end of opportunity to spend them. The same is true of the valley of Mud creek from Forest cemetery to the lake. And all those thousands of acres of creek-valley-land will be in the market to buy at very moderate prices for the next hundred years; when Toledo may have a population of several hundred thousand instead of hardly one hundred thousand.

But what a cruel response, this action of the park commissioners (if true) gives to the demand of the people of Toledo for parks that can be made quickly useful to the burdened tax-payer of the present city. What an insult to the demand for parks in our midst, and for parks by which the noble harbor of Toledo, with its cooling summer rides by boat, can be made without cost, the avenue of connection!

The Maumee river must forever be the great avenue, the water "boulevard" of summer recreation for Toledo. This coolest and most refreshing avenue is provided for us by nature free of charge. But we are told the park commissioners have turned away from it to plant money and make garden in the hot country midway between Maumee and Sylvania! I can hardly believe the report true. It is painful to think that any body of five intelligent citizens could ignore the opportunity their commissions gives them to bless Toledo by their labors, to fill the present city with evidences of their thoughtful intelligence by the choice of park grounds in half a dozen different portions of the city where they would immediately and always be a benefit to it; and that, instead, they have chosen to plant the first money to be asked for in the valley of Ten Mile creek, five miles from the center of the city, where 10 years' time and great expenditure of money will be required to make it of any use whatever.

Even were it considered a scheme to provide carriage drives for wealthy people alone, it is far less attractive than places that would cost no more, which by utilizing and beautifying the avenues of connection already in existence to connect a system of them, would form parks along the river or not far from it.

The project of a riverside park down town between the Pennsylvania railroad tracks and Summit street, and below the railways to the river; the parking of the unsightly ground between the union railway station and Wade street; the purchase of Presque Isle (than which no place is more desirable); the enlargement of the court house park to the new armory on the north, and of the Memorial hall park to the high school ground; a water front and landing for Bellevue park, and the beautifying of avenues to connect all these, are all works that are needed now, and will be of the highest usefulness and advantage to the city always.

The East Side is likely soon to grow into an important part of the city. Access to the river, good boat landings, and parks accessible by boats are of far greater use than such ground as the Collins donation. Kindly as that donation was intended, it might still be wise for the park commissioners to abandon it rather than to spend money to provide an equal amount of land contiguous to it, if by thus saving money they could insure a fourth of the same acreage on the river shore.

For the past six years the park commissioners, with an exceedingly small expenditure, have done a great deal to make Toledo more beautiful. Is not this experience suggestive that a judicious system of expenditures in the same spirit, but on a larger scale, may bring better results than this wildly premature Ten-Mile creek scheme?

It seems to me almost incredible that our park commissioners can really have taken the initial step toward the purchase of the J. B. Ketcham 280 acres on the Sylvania road.

If, however, such a proposition be presented to the city council it will be an insult to the public opinion of Toledo and a mis-direction of a great public trust that the council may well sit down upon with emphasis and unanimity.

NOW A RECEIVER

Will Manage the C., L. & M. Railway.

Judge Ricks Names John Blyth, of Galion, on Application of Receiver Hays—What the Application Sets Forth.

Another suit has been filed in United States circuit court, growing out of the failure of the Lima National bank.

This is a bill in equity held by Otho L. Hays as receiver of the Lima National bank, Lima, O., against the Columbus, Lima & Milwaukee Railway company, the Atlantic Trust company, of New York; the New York Construction company, Chicago; M. V. Marquis, and C. A. Metheany, which sets up, in substance, that on June 20, 1892, the complainant recovered judgment against the railway company in the circuit court of the United States, amounting to $6,268.30. Further that this judgment is unpaid and unsatisfied. It alleges that the United States marshal on the 20th of June, levied in execution on certain personal property of the railway company, which will not sell for enough to satisfy the judgment ,and is claimed by other parties.

That the railroad company is indebted to various persons and corporations in an amount largely in excess of its assets; that the New York Construction company had a contract with the railroad company to build and equip the line and that it did grade a portion of this line, for which the railroad company is still indebted; that the receiver holds three notes of the construction company amounting to $101,349.04, and that one of these notes amounting to $31,220, is due and unpaid.

The bill avers further that the railway company on May 1, 1889, executed to the trust company a deed of trust to secure 7,500 bonds of $1,000 each, being $7,500,000 payable May 1, 1929. That the receiver holds $400,000 of these bonds as collateral security for the payment of these three construction company notes and other indebtedness. That there is due as interest on these bonds the sum of $60,000.

The bill sets up that M. V. Marquis holds a certain portion of the right-of-way of the railroad in trust for the railway company. That C. A. Metheany holds a large amount of local aid notes given by various persons to aid in the construction of the road, and certain contracts and other assets of the railroad company.

The bill alleges that certain persons claiming to be officers of the railroad company are engaged in litigation which will impair and destroy the value of the railway.

The bill prays that a receiver be appointed to take charge of the company.

Upon this Judge Ricks appointed John Blyth, of Galion, as receiver, to take possession of the property.

TAILORS' CONVENTION.

Goodly Attendance at Long Branch Where the Sessions Will Be Held.

Long Branch, N. J., July 11.—"Artistic drapers of the human model," as many of the tailoring fraternity have begun to characterize themselves of late, are assembling here in goodly numbers preparatory to the opening of the annual national convention of the clothing designers of the United States.

The proceedings informally opened with a meeting of the executive committee, and a general assembling of the delegates to listen to addresses of welcome this afternoon and to-morrow morning the business of the convention will commence in earnest.

Many new and novel designs for male attire for the coming fall and winter, as well as for next spring are to be submitted, some of them being based on the style of apparel worn half a century ago. Whether these will be approved and adopted by the convention is, however, an open question. The delegates will also take action regarding the clothing exhibit to be made at the Columbian exposition.

HALF RATES TO WASHINGTON VIA B. & O. R. R.

For the national meet of the League of American Wheelmen at Washington, July 18 to 20, the Baltimore & Ohio railroad will sell excursion tickets at rate of one fare for the round trip. Tickets will be sold at offices of the company and offices of the principal roads of the west July 16 and 17, and will be valid for return journey until July 24. Bicycles of passengers will be carried free of charge. The Baltimore & Ohio has been designated as the official route to the meet by the officials of League of American Wheelmen.

For full information as to time of trains and rates of fare apply to L. S. Allen, Asst. Gen'l Pass. Agent, The Rookery, Chicago. Upon application, Chas. Scull, Gen. Pass. Agent, Baltimore, Md., will send free of charge a handsomely illustrated Guide to Washington.

CORNER-STONE LAID.

Wapakoneta, O., July 11.—(Special)—Yesterday afternoon the corner-stone of the new First English Lutheran church of this city was laid. About 1,500 people witnessed it. The following articles were laid under it: A copy of each of the county papers, song book and a Bible. Rev. S. F. Breckenridge, of Springfield, assisted by others, performed the ceremonies.

A WOMAN.

Ah, she is of our thought and time,
And we are vaguely loath to trace
Through nights of variant age and clime
Her birthright to a servile race.
Amid the tumult of our days,
Thrilled with the fire of hope and dream,
She treads in fearless wise the ways
That men had sought and trod supreme.
With gladdened eyes she fares, and none
Shall check her warm, uplifting soul
That sees afar some shining goal
Like the new glory of a sun.
She feels the exultant sense of life,
And battles in the blood of strife;
Where men have climbed, her hands shall reach;
What men have taught, her tongue shall teach;
Sexless in struggle, bold in mind,
Fertile in fresh expedient, strong
To hold her right against the wrong,
To seek what others dare to find,
She stands uncowed, unbowed, unbent,
The mistress of her high intent.

Yet she is but a woman still,
Who weeps as only women weep,
Who loves as only women will,
And reaps her joys as women reap;
Whose mystery, in its sacred stir,
Is the inviolate part of her;
Whose charm is not of man, but blown
Like the wild roses, all her own.
Sweetheart and flower of fruitful years,
Time cannot change her smiles and tears,
Time cannot rob her of the grace
Which burns like love-light in her face.

MICKEY FINN'S ROOSTER.

It was two hours after noon of a day late in June. A cool breeze started the maples and pines in the wood a-whispering to each other. The undulating hills were carpeted with imperial green from nature's loom. The subtle incense of sweetbrier lingered in the air around the Finn shanty. Butterflies spread their golden sails in the sunlight and humming birds dipped deep into the morning-glories trellised over the door, while Brown's pond dimpled at the caress of the breeze. The little valley seemed to be peaceful with pastoral content, when a small black speck appeared on the horizon over Snake Hill. To the dull eye of man the speck would have been invisible, but to the trained eyes of Mickey Finn's bantam hen it was eloquent of cruel talons, an iron beak, a murder for her little ones. And so she clucked in a quick, sharp manner, and seven little animated bunches of yellow down ran under her protecting wings. The bronze-winged bantam rooster bristled fiercely and fixed his glittering eye upon the speck as it came nearer in wide, aerial sweeps, until it hung in the air 500 feet high over the back yard, a hawk four feet from tip to tip of wings. There was no movement of the splendid pinions as the great bird sailed in slow flight in the arc of a circle one-quarter of a mile wide. No movement of the feathered group in the back yard escaped the baleful gaze of this pirate of the air. The partridge in the woods saw the hawk and hid themselves, and while the bantam hen cowered and looked fearfully upward, the little rooster showed defiance and invited attack.

It was at this interesting moment that little Mike came home from school. He saw the hawk and watched it sweep under the blue dome in gradually narrowing circles. He hid himself beneath the honey-suckles of the porch, and while watching with breathless interest the approach of the bird of prey quickly took off his coat. The boy's cheeks paled with excitement as the critical moment drew near. The clamor in the yard had ceased, too, as if the chickens realized that the moment was too supreme for speech. Then the hungry bundle of feathers, beak and talons dropped down upon the bantam hen. The rooster flew to the rescue. Just as the cruel claws were fastened in the back of the hen and the hawk began to rise little Mike darted out of the door and threw his coat over hen, hawk and rooster. Then he shouted:

"Quick, mother, quick! I have the big hen-hawk! Git a bag! Git a bag!"

Meanwhile the little chickens escaped from underneath the coat, peeking plaintively, the rooster crawled out angry and rumpled, while the hawk struggled fiercely and tore the coat into shreds, incidentally taking a large piece of flesh out of Mickey's thumb. But he knels upon the body of the angry bird and held on to the neck with grim persistance. Mrs. Finn came running out with a bag in one hand and the poker.

"You hold him, Mickey, and I'll bate in his skull," she exclaimed, aiming a blow at the hawk's head which would have scattered her son's brains all over the yard had he not dodged.

"No, no, mother; don't kill him! I want to keep him alive," said Mickey. "Here, tie his legs together with your shoestring!"

Mrs. Finn deftly tied the bird's legs together. Then it was shoved into the bag and carried into the kitchen.

"An' what are ye goin' to do wid that black thief, Mickey?" inquired his mother, as she tenderly bound up her son's torn thumb. "Shure, ye have animals enough now. There's the ould goat and the crow and the mud turkle and the hins!"

But Mickey only smiled significantly and said he had use for the hawk. And so, when his finger had been tied up, he took the big bird down in the cellar and put it in a barrel with laths nailed over the top.

After supper that night, when his father returned from the quarry, Mickey had a long talk with his paternal ancestor on the back stoop under the morning glory vines. They talked in whispers so that Mrs. Finn could not hear. The talk seemed to yield Mr. Finn a good deal of gratification. At intervals he would slap his knees and shout with laughter, mingled with exclamations of:

"The Ballyscuttry rooster! The Ballyscuttry! Oh, but you're the divil for invintion, Mickey!"

The next day Mr. Finn told his fellow-workmen in the quarry that he had just received a most remarkable fighting cock from Ireland. "It ain't his soize, b'ys, that makes him remarkable," said he, "but it's the quare way he has of fightin'. Sure, he has no spurs like a Bramoo or a Ranckhockie cock. He jist picks wid his bill and fights wid his fisht. He's dumpy now bekase he was saysick comin' over the water, but whin he gets well I'll bet tin dollars he'll lick Paddy Flaherty's game cock in wan round!"

Of course this challenge was carried to Flaherty, who owned the most accomplished fighting rooster in Coney Island. It was a magnificent game cock of seven pounds weight, that had whipped all the roosters for miles around, and had earned more than $100 for its owner. Flaherty regarded his bird invincible, and when he heard of the challenge he went over to the Finn shanty right away to put up the money. But as a measure of security he insisted on seeing the wonderful cock which was to be pitted against his own.

Meanwhile little Mike had not been idle. He had carefully clipped the hawk's wings so that it could not fly. Then, with the aid of some paint which had been left over when his father painted the window blinds in the spring, he had turned the hawk into a patriotic Irish bird by making it a bright green in color, with the exception of its legs, which were made to assume a bright red. Flaherty peered into the barrel through the slats nailed over the top. At the bottom crouched the disconsolate hawk.

"Faix," said he, "that's the first time I ever saw a grane rooster."

"It's well ye may say that," said Mickey, "for this is the only wan of its kind in Amerika. But he'll take the consait out o' your chickens, me bucko, while you're turnin' your hand over, I'll go ball."

This boast angered Flaherty, who immediately put up the $10, and arrangements were made to have the fight take place in Doolan's barn on the following evening. Little Mike fed the hawk raw meat "to make him ugly," as he said. Captivity had a very depressing effect upon the hawk. It had fluttered around in the barrel for many hours in vain effort to escape until it was bruised and exhausted, and then settled down in the bottom of the barrel sullen and dejected. So discouraged did it seem to be that it failed to resent the efforts of Mickey to stir it up with a stick. But the fierce fire in the bird was only slumbering. Its keen eyes shone like jet, and that its strength was unimpaired was shown by the way in which it jerked a lath out of Mickey's hand with its strong beak.

When the eventful evening arrived Doolan's barn was lit up with lanterns. Nearly 100 men and boys had paid 25 cents apiece to see the fight. The barn was crowded. Flaherty arrived first with his rooster under his arm. The appearance of Mickey with the Ballyscuttry bird created a good deal of excitement, and never were preparations for a cock fight watched with more eagerness. Mickey drove a ten-penny nail in the floor, to which he tied one end of a piece of tarred rope, the other end being fastened to the leg of the hawk. The big bird tried to fly, but finding that the attempt was useless, and frightened by the crowd of eager faces, squatted down close to the floor in a heap. When time was called Flaherty dropped his rooster upon the floor. It was a splendid bird. It walked as proudly as a Spanish grandee straight over to its enemy. The beadlike eye of the hawk watched every movement. Quick as an arrow from the bow the left leg of the rooster shot out. A steel gaff flashed in the light of the lanterns and passed harmlessly over the hawk's head, for the hawk had dodged. The hawk showed such evident signs of fear that comments of contempt were heard on all sides. But interest in the fight was quickened again when the rooster's right gaff swept like a scimeter across the neck of the hawk. That was a narrow escape and the hawk seemed to realize it. It raised upward and bent forward like a cat about to spring. Everybody felt that the crisis had come. The rooster thrust forward its head, when, quicker than eye could follow, the cruel beak of the hawk seized its small red comb. The next moment the talons of its left foot were buried in the rooster's shining back, while the right talons had seized the head of the bird. After a sudden jerk the game cock was headless. The silence of the amazed group was broken by Patsey Fogarty, who said:

"By me sowkius, but that Ballyscuttry bird has a mighty fine grip with his fisht!"

Ex-Gov. Curtin's years have not dulled the wit that has always made him one of the most agreeable of companions. He happened to be talking about horses to some friends at Tyrone the other day and re-called a little incident of war times. Some one had sought his advice about buying a good roadster, and he recommended the would-be purchaser to Dr. Rutherford, of Harrisburg, who said: "Do you want a first-class animal? Well, you cannot go amiss in buying any horse you see within a radius of forty miles of Harrisburg, for all the bad horses have been bought up and turned over to the government for the use of the army." Gen. Curtin bears his age well, and is said to be looking better now than for ten years past.

JOKE-MAKING.

It Has Become a Regular Profession.

How the Jokes Are Turned Out in Quantities

By the Professionals, and the Prices That They Command in the Market.

Jokes have become a standard commodity manufactured in regular quantities and put on the market as any other article of merchandise, says the New York Sun. The professional joke manufacturers have their jobbing and retail houses with which they deal, and they eagerly keep track of the net prices for jokes and the opportunity to extend their market, like other business men.

It is not so long ago that jokes were spontaneous bubblings of the inner consciousness of fun and humor. No man would think of sitting down in the morning after breakfast and setting to work at hammering jokes out of his brain as he would cut stone out of a quarry. When he thought of something funny he would laugh about it to himself first and then he would tell it over to his friends until some one suggested to him that it was good enough to print. After this commendation the joke might be written out and sent to some newspaper or magazine, where in the course of time it might appear in print. The reward of the author of the joke would be that he had increased the sum of human enjoyment.

That was well enough at the start, but the readers of the papers and magazines wanted more jokes, and the demand for a regular supply of jokes made a steady market. The papers and magazines began to pay for jokes just as they would for novels, war stories, or articles on Aztec civilization, and they sent word to the men who were in the habit of thinking funny things and sending them to the papers and magazines to be published, asking them whether they could not think of more jokes, and offering to pay for the jokes as a stimulant to joke production. This demand brought out the professional jokers, and the man who found that he could think of a good joke once or twice a week applied himself to it and produced more jokes which he sold for 50 cents or $1 apiece.

From this beginning the joke business grew until there are now men who run regular joke factories. They not only think up jokes themselves, but they get other people to think up jokes for them, and they will take crude material for jokes and polish it up in the accepted forms which go best on the jokes market. They have perfected the frame work and moulds for the joke business so that all they need is an occasional new idea to keep on turning out jokes indefinitely. The joke habit is like the pun habit; the quantity is pretty sure to increase, even if the same amount of humor and fun may come before the public diluted and strung out to a series of jokes instead of being concentrated in a few.

It is the business of the professional joker to dress his jokes up in such a manner as to be acceptable to the public. A joke is not so much a new thing as a new way of putting something that in a non-humorous way has occurred to almost everyone. A joke should not have more than one point. It is a waste of material to put two points in a joke when one is enough, and more than one point in a joke confuses the reading public, who want jokes to divert them instead of exciting them to intellectual effort.

With the development of the comic paper and such publications as Puck, Judge, and Life, the joke market became a steady thing, and quotations on jokes are made as on wheat. An A No. 1 joke now brings in the market as high as $2.50 to $5, a joke which goes well with an illustration commanding the higher price. An illustrated joke, of course, rates higher than a joke that has no picture with it. A joke without a picture must be excellent to be worth more than $2.50. These are the top-notch quotations at present, but the demand for very funny jokes exceeds the supply, and it is likely that the rate for good jokes will go up at the expense of the rate for second and third rate jokes, as the public is becoming more fastidious in the joke line.

If a joke is a long joke running over a quarter of a column it commands the usual, or a little better than the usual, space rate, but when a joke becomes long it ceases to be a joke and develops into the funny story which was known to editors before the joke factories came into existence. The modern joke of commerce is short and not worth more than twenty to fifty cents at the ordinary space rates paid by a newspaper. It consists usually of two to four very short paragraphs from one line to three lines long. The shortest joke is two lines each in a separate paragraph. A says or does something which incites B to say or do something, and the joke is ready for publication and the laughter of the public. From that next in size is the three paragraph joke. A says something, B says or does something, and A replies. The usual maximum is a four paragraph joke introducing three people. A says or does something to B, B replies, A retorts, and C comments. This is somewhat elaborate for a joke, but elaboration alone does not increase the price.

The market rate for jokes does not depend on the number of words or lines or persons involved; it depends on the quality. Every magazine and paper which prints and pays for jokes instead of stealing them has a man whose business it is to pass on all the jokes offered for sale, and he has a standard of quality and fixed prices. The manufacturers of jokes know the price of the publication and how much they will get for all jokes that are accepted by it. So they submit their jokes and receive a check for the used jokes and get the other jokes back. Naturally they begin with the papers and magazines that pay best, and send them their full supply of best jokes. The jokes that are returned they send to the next best publication, and so on until they get to the papers that do not pay more than 50 cents a joke. The jokes that are returned then are left on their hands, as they do not break the joke market by offering inferior jokes at reduced rates.

An active professional joker can produce 100 jokes a week steadily. Cases have been known where the professional joker turned out as many as 300 jokes a week, but he was at the height of his business, and the production was at a more rapid rate than he could keep up. A quarter or a third of the jokes are pretty sure to be left on the maker's hands, but he should get an average rate of $1 or $1.25 on the others, which would make the joke business fairly profitable, as the cost of typewriting and postage is not great.

The jokes are offered for sale in parcels varying in size from ten to fifty. Occasionally a joke manufacturer will send a few stray jokes to a new market, but his regular customers he supplies at stated times with lots to suit. The jokes come on separate slips of paper, with the mark of the factory and the number of the joke stamped on the paper for purposes of identification and bookkeeping. A return envelope, with the name and address of the factory and return postage, is enclosed with the jokes. The joke sharp employed by the paper or magazine for that purpose passes on them speedily, and returns the undesirable jokes. The jokes make the round of the publications which pay best first, and then to the publications which pay next best, and so on until they have been offered to all possible purchasers. The tastes of the joke experts vary, and what might suit one joke buyer would be rejected by another one. If does not cost much to try them all, as the professional joke manufacturer is reasonably well paid for his labor if he disposes of half his jokes. These jokes are worked out in certain lines and themes. A new idea is not limited to one joke, but may be used a number of times. The mind of the professional joker becomes like the interior apparatus of a kaleidoscope filled with pieces of colored glass which make a different picture every time they are shaken. A wonderful number of combinations may be made with a few joke ideas in the same way that the pieces of colored glass never look twice the same.

Increase of Cholera Infantum.

The local physicians are busy with their usual July cases of cholera infantum, which have been increasing rapidly the last few days. "This fearful cause of infantile mortality," said a prominent physician yesterday, "can be prevented easier than it can be cured. I have about twenty babies on lactated food, and none of them show any signs of cholera infantum, but the disease is common in families where this food is not used."

CAMPBELL DON'T KNOW

Who Will Be Appointed to His Place on the Republican Committee.

Chicago, July 11.—W. J. Campbell returned to Chicago yesterday morning. When seen last evening at his home in Riverside Mr. Campbell declared that he had no idea who would be appointed in his place.

"After appointing the executive committee on Thursday," said Mr. Campbell, I spent the next day yachting in the waters about New York. I had hoped to call the executive committee together and have my resignation acted upon before returning home, but found that it would be impossible on account of prior engagements on the part of some of the members. The committee will meet, however, next Saturday at the Fifth Avenue hotel in New York. At that meeting my resignation will be formally accepted and my successor appointed. I have no idea who will be chosen."

Befall Two Pleasure Steamers at Different Places.

A Steam Launch Goes Over a Dam in Montana, and a Pleasure Barge Does the Same Thing in Iowa.

Waterloo, Ia., July 11.—Last evening the pleasure steamer City of Waterloo, which was pushing a barge containing 100 persons, attempted to cross the river a short distance above the milldam in this city, and drifted over the dam sideways, the boats falling fully eight feet. The passengers were taken off in small boats, only two being injured, and these but slightly.

One Drowned.

Great Falls, Mont., July 11.—The steamer Minnie, a steam launch of 36 tons, and carrying about thirty persons, went over the dam last night. In the efforts to snub the boat up Jack Delaney, of this city, was knocked off and drowned and all the standing work, mast, signal staff and boiler rigging were knocked off. The passengers, with the exception of Delaney, were unharmed. The boat was valued at $8,000 and is a total loss.

THE BEST IN THE WORLD.

Senator Henry C. Nelson, of New York, writes:

"On the 27th of February, 1883, I was taken with a violent pain in the region of the kidneys. I suffered such agony that I could hardly stand up. As soon as possible I applied two Allcock's Porous Plasters, one over each kidney, and laid down. In an hour, to my surprise and delight, the pain had vanished, and I was well. I wore the plasters for a day or two as a precaution, and then removed them. I have been using Allcock's Porous Plasters in my family for the last ten years, and have always found them the quickest and best remedy for colds, strains and rheumatic affections. From my experience I believe they are the best plasters in the world."

A RECEIPT FOR A KISS.

"I was never kissed by a woman but once in my life—by which I mean that that kiss made me forget all others.

"Describe it? Impossible.

"It was at Richfield Springs. I was a handsome fellow in those days, and had had several desperate flirtations with young girls. So I didn't think anything of it one evening while sitting on the veranda in rather a dark corner to feel a pair of soft arms suddenly clasped around my neck and a mouth of thrilling fragrance and a wonderful aptitude in kissing set upon my lips.

"When I came to my senses I threw my arms around the beautiful unknown, but a low voice whispered: 'Be generous and let me go!'

"I obliged.

"A month or more afterward, when I had returned to town, I received a dainty little anonymous note, telling me that that kiss had been the result of a lark of several young married women, who held an indignation meeting and protested against the conduct of the young girls who had set a cordon around me and claimed me as their special property.

"So it was resolved that one of the indignation band should be chosen by lot to carry a kiss to me, and I was now requested to receipt for it. The receipt was inclosed and read as follows:

"'Received on the hotel veranda at Richfield Springs at 9:30 in the evening of July 17, 188—, one kiss in good condition, from unknown lips.'"—Philadelphia Inquirer.

CURES SCROFULA

Mrs. E. J. Rowell, Medford, Mass., says her mother has been cured of Scrofula by the use of four bottles of S.S.S. after having had much other treatment, and being reduced to quite a low condition of health, as it was thought she could not live.

S.S.S. Cured my little boy of hereditary scrofula which appeared all over his face. For a year I had given up all hope of his recovery, when finally I was induced to use S.S.S. A few bottles cured him, and no symptoms of the disease remain.

CONCLUDING DAY

Of the Great Christian Endeavor Convention.

Splendid Services at Madison Square Garden and an Immense Attendance.

New York, July 11.—The last day of the convention of Christian Endeavorers began yesterday morning with a prayer meeting in the Madison Square Garden, conducted by H. B. Pennell, of Boston. About 10,000 delegates were present, and after prayers and much hymn singing, the meeting adjourned until 10:15 o'clock to enable the delegates to attend regular services in the different evangelical churches in the city.

The afternoon session began at 2 o'clock, President Clark presiding. Fully 15,000 delegates were in attendance, despite the intense heat. After the prayer and praise meeting, brief reports were received from the committee conferences, under the direction of Mr. William Shaw, treasurer of the United Society, who reports that the greatest enthusiasm had been manifested by the delegates at the different denominational rallies held during the convention. At one of them $1,500 had been subscribed for the completion of a missionary church in Salt Lake City. The Friends, or Quakers, he said, formed a Christian Endeavor society at yesterday's rally of their delegates.

"Throw Out the Life Line" was then sung by Mr. Stebbins, after which Mr. Ira B. Sankey spoke on the subject of Christian Endeavor in Great Britain. He has just returned, he said, from a six months' campaign with Mr. Moody in Scotland and England, and having attended the last national Christian Endeavor convention, held six weeks ago in the city of Chester, he had an opportunity of seeing something of the workings of the society in the old country, and he was glad to say it was making great progress in England, Scotland, and Wales. Ireland, he said, was very far behind, but if there were more Christian Endeavor societies there it would be the best kind of home rule Ireland could have.

An address on gospel temperance was given by John G. Woolley, of Minnesota, followed by singing and a paper entitled, "Among the Northwest Indians," by E. R. Young, of Toronto, Ont.

The Rev. J. Henry Barrow, D. D., of Chicago, spoke on the possibilities of the "World's Fair."

THE LETTER MISLAID.

Reason Why Mr. Stevenson Did Not Hear from Mr. Cleveland.

Bloomington, Ill., July 11.—It transpires that the accidental misplacing of the letter was the cause of Adlai E. Stevenson's not hearing from Mr. Cleveland upon his nomination for vice president, a fact upon which much comment has been made by the press throughout the country.

Mr. Stevenson's private secretary last Friday night, in clearing up an accumulation of newspapers in the office in which Mr. Stevenson's correspondence has been carried on since his nomination, found an unopened letter addressed to the vice presidential nominee and it proved to be the long looked for letter from Mr. Cleveland.

A DISAPPEARANCE.

Springfield, O., July 11.—Henry Willert, agent of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company at Cincinnati, disappeared several days ago. No trace of him can be found and it is thought that he committed suicide. He is short in his accounts about $300. Melancholia and excessive drink are believed to be the causes.

Why is it that Strictly Pure White Lead is the best paint?

Because it will outlast all other Paints, make a handsomer finish, give better protection to the wood, and the first cost will be less.

If a color other than white is wanted, tint the paint with the National Lead Co.'s

Pure White Lead Tinting Colors.

These colors are sold in small cans, one pound being sufficient to tint twenty-five pounds of strictly pure White Lead to the desired shade.

Be Careful

to use only old and well-known brands of white lead. The market is flooded with adulterated and "so-called" white leads. The following brands are always strictly pure and are established by the test of years:

ANCHOR (Cincinnati)
ARMSTRONG & McKELVY (Pittsburgh)
BEYMER-BAUMAN (Pittsburgh)
COLLIER (St. Louis)
CORNELL (Buffalo)
DAVIS-CHAMBERS (Pittsburgh)
ECKSTEIN (Cincinnati)
FAHNESTOCK (Pittsburgh)
MORLEY (Cleveland)
RED SEAL (St. Louis)
SHIPMAN (Chicago)
SOUTHERN (St. Louis and Chicago)

These brands of strictly pure White Lead and the National Lead Co.'s Tinting colors are for sale by the best dealers in paints everywhere.

If you are going to paint, it will pay you to send to us for a book containing information that may save you many a dollar; it will only cost you a postal card to do so.

DO YOU WANT GOLD?

Cripple Creek is not a health resort. It is a wealth resort. Quite a difference! Location, near Pike's Peak, in Colorado. Gold—bright, yellow gold, is found at grass roots and in the rock formation.

Reliable experts claim this is to-day the richest camp in Colorado. Assays average $100 per ton, and have run as high as $5,000. One hundred people a day are now rushing to Fremont, chief town of the district.

The chance of a life-time is worth looking after!

You can get there quickly and comfortably by taking Santa Fe Route. Only line with no change of cars from Chicago, Kansas City and other principal cities to Florissant, nearest railroad station, with daily stages, to Fremont.

IN TRADING CIRCLES.

Both at Our Home and Abroad.

Wheat Quotations for the Day—Price Currents for Produce and Other Articles.

The receipts of wheat to-day at Minneapolis and Duluth are 395,185 bu., and at five other western points 193,555 bu., aggregate, 588,740. In the corresponding Monday in 1891 the receipts were 517,366 bu.

The export clearances yesterday at four Atlantic ports were: Wheat, 325,631 bu., and flour to an aggregate of 510,000 bu. Export of corn, 83,274, and of oats, 68,504 bu.

English markets, as reported herein, for wheat and corn are dull and inactive.

Smutty Wheat.

Attention is called to the paragraph herein from the circular of Messrs. Danson, Blackmore & Co., Cincinnati, and in connection with this we desire to state that great irregularity in quality of wheat is promised on this crop. There is a deal of smutty wheat and the smutt greatly damages the quality. We have seen samples of beautiful wheat this morning which is thoroughly impregnated with this damaging odor. It can only be sold at a loss. Interior dealers should exercise more than usual scrutiny in their purchases or they will be sure to meet disappointment and loss.

Ohio Crops, State Board.

Wheat, estimated area sown, 2, 795,212 acres, plowed up, 219, 749 acres, area for harvest 2,575,463 acres, condition .80. Oats, condition 83. Corn, area 86 per cent., condition 74. Clover seed, condition 87, quality 84. Potatoes, area 88, condition 82.

The Government Report.

The crop report by Col. Dodge is about what we expected in winter wheat, and simply maintains his June report. The percentage of condition of all wheat July 1 is 90, against 89.7 June 1. Spring wheat condition is 92.3. In July, 1891, 94.1. But that proves nothing on the spring wheat crop. The result of it is too doubtful. The Record says "a few days of a certain sort of destructive weather would take off 25 per cent. of the yield, easily." Again the Record says: "In 1888 the percentage of condition was 95 in July and 77 in September." Go slow on spring wheat until you get it.

New Wheat in Cincinnati.

The new wheat now arriving is variable in quality and condition, testing 55 to 62 lbs to the bushel, and grading from unmerchantable to strictly choice.

This is a season for close and careful discrimination as to quality, and calling for the services of one who "knows wheat when he sees it."

DAWSON, BLACKMORE & CO.

The Markets To-day.

The wheat markets are dull. About every newspaper, daily and weekly, and all the railway interest, helps to make it so by printing exaggerated prospects of the crop. When there is plenty of evidence, and it accumulates daily, that the yield will be disappointing in quantity and quality. This discourages foreign as well as domestic buyers.

Another reason for dullness, besides the pending of the Hatch bill is, that buyers have been steadily loosing for a year and are loth to take hold.

The visible supply of wheat decreased last week 1,232,000 bush., corn decreased 758,000 bush., oats increased 479,000 bush.

The wheat markets in this country opened weak and with only very moderate offerings, continued in that condition until September at Chicago had made a loss of 3-4c, at 75 1-2c, when a little more firmness was observable, and a good part of the loss was recovered.

Corn has been very weak in Chicago, and nearly steady in New York. Liverpool says there is no American corn there.

Foreign markets closed without special significance.

In New York August wheat closed 5-8c and September 3-4c lower. August and September corn unchanged. July oats 3-4c lower.

In Chicago August wheat closed 1-8c and September 1-4c lower. August corn 7-8c and September 1c lower. July oats 1 1-2c lower.

In Toledo there has been about the usual trading in wheat in a limited, dull and hesitating way. There was some wheat for sale for interior dealers and buyers were very shy and prices declined 1c on July and August wheat. Before the close a fraction of the loss was recovered. July closed 7-8c and August 3-4c lower. Nothing done for September. On the call July sold at 79 5-8c, first half July at 80 to 80 1-4c, August at 78 3-4c, and September at 79 1-4c. After the call July sold at 79 3-8c to 79c and closed at 79 3-8c. August sold at 78 3-8 to 78 1-4c and closed at 78 1-2c.

Cash wheat was about 1-2c lower and not in sharp demand. No. 2 soft sold at 80 1-2c, and in LS. at 80 3-4c, No. 3 soft 75 1-2c. No. 2 red and winter at 75 1-2c, smutty at 74 1-2c, selected white at 72c.

Corn—No. 2 for July at 49c. No. 3 at 48c. No. 4 at 40c. Rye No. 2 for August 57 1-2c.

Markets by Telegraph.

London, July 11.—1:00 p. m.—Wheat cargoes off coast at opening, very quiet; maize nothing offering. Wheat cargoes on passage and for shipment, inactive; maize steady.

Mark Lane—Wheat and maize at opening, steady. French country markets very slow and occasionally cheaper.

Liverpool, July 11.—1:00 p. m.—Wheat market dull, demand poor, holders offer moderately. American mixed corn, none here. Wheat off coast, demand poor.

New York, July 11.—Money on call loaned easy at 2 per cent. Exchange quiet and easier; posted rates, 488@489 1-2; actual rates, 486 3-4@487 for 60 days, and 488@488 1-4 for demand.

Governments dull and firm; currency, 6s, 106 bid; 4s, coup, 116 1-2@117 bid; extended 2s, registered, 100 bid.

The stock market opened dull at 1-8 to 1-2 lower than Saturday's close. A rallying tendency was seen in the early trading and Burlington rose 5-8c but the whole list soon gave way and quickly declined below the opening prices. Louisville & Nashville led the decline, losing 1-8 from its last price on Saturday. At 11 o'clock the market was dull and steady at small fractions below opening prices. At noon the market was dull and stagnant at about the lowest prices. Sales to noon 70,700 shares.

New York, July 11.—Flour steady; Minnesota extra, $2 35@4 85; superfine, $1 90@2 60; fine, $1 70@2 25; city mill extra, $4 25@4 55 for West Indies. Wheat opened weak at 1-4@1-2c decline, fell 3-8c more, then rallied 1-8c and at noon was steady; No. 2 red winter, cash, 88c; July, 83 3-4c; August, 83c; September, 83 1-4c. Corn opened weak at 5-8c decline, fell 1-4c more and at noon was weak; No. 2 mixed, 56c; July, 54 1-4c; August, 53 7-8c; September, 53 3-8c. Oats steady; No. 2 mixed, 36c; July, 35c; August, 34 1-2c. Rye dull and weak; 78@81c in car-lots. Barley unchanged. Molasses slow; New Orleans, 30@35c. Sugar, refined quiet; cutloaf and crushed, 5@5 1-8c; powdered, 4 3-4@4 7-8c; granulated, 4 3-8@4 5-8c; mould A, 4 1-2@4 5-8c. Coffee steady; fair rio cargoes, 14 3-4c. Rice nominal. Pork quiet; old mess, $11 75@12 75. Lard steady; September, $7 44. Butter quiet; prices steady; creamery western extra, 20 1-2@21c; state creamery, 19@21c; state dairy, 19@19 1-2c. Cheese steady but quiet; state factory full cream, 8 1-2c; common to fair, 7@7 3-4c. Eggs quiet but firm; choice state, new laid, 16 1-2c; western, 15 1-2@16 for prime. Turpentine quiet; 29 3-4@30 1-2c. Rosin quiet and steady; strained, $1 22 1-2; good, $1 25. Tallow dull and unchanged; prime city, 4 1-4@4 5-16c. Petroleum nominal. Freights unchanged.

Chicago, July 11.—Close: Wheat—July, 78 7-8c; September, 76c. Corn—July, 48 1-2c; September, 47 7-8c. Oats—September, 30c. Pork—September, $11 92 1-2. Lard—September, $7 27 1-2. Ribs—September, $7 42 1-2@7 45.

COL. SMEAD RAKES IN

A Contract With the Clover Leaf Road at Frankfort.

Earnings of the Ohio Central on the Increase.

The Ball Game Saturday—Other Notes of Local and General Interest to Toledo Railroad Men and Their Friends.

Isaac D. Smead & Co. have been awarded the contract for the putting in of the sanitary appliances in the new shops and offices of the Toledo, St. Louis & Kansas City railroad at Frankfort, Ind. Work has been commenced.

Under Water Again.

Word was received in Toledo this noon that the waters in the Mississippi were rising again, and that they were far above the danger mark. The Toledo, St. Louis & Kansas City tracks are again under water, but the damage will be very slight compared with the former flood. Trains are running all right and steam shovels are at work widening the banks, etc., and things are being put in shape as rapidly as possible.

At the O. C. Docks.

Nothwithstanding the scarcity of boats the Toledo & Ohio Central is doing a good coal business. Three hundred of the 1,000 coal cars ordered have been delivered and are in use. About 250 cars of coal constitute the daily output at the mines at present. Saturday 188 car loads of coal were loaded into vessels at the Toledo docks.

There will be plenty of vessels at the O. C. docks this week. Following are those due: Steamer Brittain, 100 tons; the Whitaker, 1,500 tons; schooner Watson, 1,100 tons; steamer Ketcham, 1,800 tons; the Hadley, 2,000 tons; the Ashland, 1,500 tons.

Toledo Superintendents.

The Toledo and Detroit Superintendents' association met in the Bee building Saturday. A committee consisting of Manager Grogan, of the Car Service association; Superintendent Whittlesey, of the Lake Shore, and Superintendent J. B. Flanders, of the C., J. & M., was appointed to secure furnishings for room 12, where the railroad organizations are to meet.

A Corking Game.

The railroad men played at ball nobly Saturday for the benefit of the Boys' home. The score was 16 to 3 in favor of the picked nine, in which were such ripsnorters as Ben Vail, of the Ann Arbor; W. H. Young, of the Hocking Valley; F. N. Foster, of the Kanawha Despatch. Then there were Geo. Blankemeier, W. Brown, Wm. Farnsworth, of the B. & O., O. R. Mathews, and the red hot battery, John Garvin, catcher, and H. Watters, pitcher.

The defeated but game Toledo & Ohio Central nine was composed of G. Goulden, F. Smith, W. E. Hall, A. A. Parker, C. H. Baldwin, F. Holzemer, C. Cole and the battery, Parker and Mattison.

Th captain of the Ohio Central boys said this morning: "Why, we were simply not in it—they picked us up and threw us over the fence. Their battery was a rattling one as we learned to our sorrow. However we had lots of fun and the object was a worthy one."

On the Increase.

The earnings of the Toledo, St. Louis & Kansas City railroad for the first week in July, 1892, amounted to $35,825.24.

The earnings for the same week of 1891 were $32,809.10.

This shows an increase for the week of the present year of $3,016.14.

A New Publication.

The Toledo Telegrapher, an ably edited and very readable monthly magazine, has made its appearance. J. R. T. Austin is the publisher. It upholds the cause of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers and telegraphers in general.

Ohio Central Earnings.

The earnings of the Toledo & Ohio Central railroad for the first week in July, 1892, amounted to $23,502, as compared with $26,990 for the same week of last year showing a decrease of $3,388.

The earnings of the Toledo, Columbus & Cincinnati railroad also show a decrease of $590 for the week, the earnings being $23,502 as compared to $26,990, the earnings of the same week last year.

Off For Chicago.

A number of local freight officials went to Chicago this morning to attend the meeting of the Central Traffic association. The meeting was to have been held at Put-in-Bay, but so many important matters came up it was thought best to postpone the Put-in-Bay trip.

Among Railroaders.

Passenger business is a little light on local roads following the Fourth.

C. T. Wright, commercial agent of the B. & O., went to Chicago this morning.

Michael Lyons is being urged by his railroad friends to run for county auditor.

J. Langraf, Jr., auditor of the Toledo and Ohio Central, is at the sea shore with his family.

The passenger department of the Central Traffic association will meet Thursday, July 14.

The Toledo Railway Clerks' association will take a moonlight ride on the City of Toledo this evening.

General Manager J. M. Ferris, of the Ohio Central lines, went down the T. and O. C. this forenoon.

Moulton Houk, general passenger agent of the Ohio Central lines, went down the T. & O. C. this morning.

George Rodier, coal registering clerk of the Ohio Central, is spending a two weeks' vacation in Chicago.

The earnings of the Wheeling and Lake Erie for the third week in June were $27,959, an increase of $2,259.

Superintendent P. N. Pratt, of the Toledo, St. Louis and Kansas City railroad, at Frankfort, is in town to-day.

Charley Gates took his family to Ogunquit, Maine, last week. He will return to-morrow to join them again in August.

R. S. Lippincott, chief clerk in the Toledo & Ohio Central chief engineer's office, is down on the Kanawa & Michigan this week.

Purchasing Agent H. A. Cooper, of the Ohio Central lines, will leave the 13th for a two weeks' trip to New York and the east.

S. A. Blair, agent at Toledo for the Erie Dispatch, will leave to-morrow morning for a week's trip up the T., A. A. and N. M.

General Superintendent T. M. Peelar, Mrs. Peelar and Mrs. Dallarn and son left yesterday afternoon for New York. They start for Europe Wednesday.

Thos. Coulon, live stock agent for the Michigan Central, is enjoying a vacation in the east. He will visit New York, Philadelphia, Boston and other cities.

The executive committee of the Toledo Joint Inspection Bureau held a meeting in the Bee building Saturday and decided some important questions that have been hanging fire.

The surgeons of the Cincinnati, Jackson and Mackinaw railroad have formed an organization electing D. J. K. Woods, of Van Wert, president, and Dr. J. L. Slager, of Paulding, secretary.

Until further notice we will sell the stock of boots and shoes formerly owned by Harry M. Chapman at prices way below first cost, having bought it accordingly.

LOOK OUT, BOYS,

The Penalty for Swimming is Imprisonment.

John Sanford, Geo. Thatcher, Peter Vigness, Will Ray, Henry Hermann, Dennis Honn, Earl Silvey, Pierce Lahr, Chas. Nordhoff, James Hennessey and Wm. Stein, all boys, were arrested yesterday for swimming in the river. They were given five hours in the city prison this morning.

The Swiss National Council is considering a law to limit stock jobbing.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS.

The walls of the Neuhausel building are being pulled down to avoid their falling.

The Michigan Women's Press association will hold its convention at Bay View, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, July 20, 21 and 22.

A number of Toledoans will graduate in the Chautauquan studies this year, and will either go to Lakeside or Chautauqua to receive their honors.

Rev. Osmond and Mrs. J. W. Hiett conducted religious exercises at the workhouse yesterday. There are 115 prisoners and they were orderly and seemed to enjoy the services. At its conclusion papers and magazines were distributed.

Paul Boyton, the great swimmer, will be the great attraction at Presque Isle Friday, Saturday and Sunday next. His exhibitions of marvellous feats will undoubtedly prove an attraction that will be both interesting and instructive. The opera house and other attractions are being liberally patronized this season.

A well-known lawyer of Toledo and his good wife were entertaining a lady friend the other day, and the conversation turned upon the warfare at Homestead. Mention was made of the dreadful punishing the surrounded Pinkertons suffered at the hands of the mob, the worst cruelties being inflicted by the exasperated women. "And yet," said the lawyer's wife, "men say women must not vote because they cannot fight." "I never said they couldn't fight," returned the lawyer with significant emphasis.

CITY ENGINEER MILLER

Will Put a Quietus on Street Railway Squabbles

If the Companies Don't Come to Their Senses—Another Scrimmage on Summit Street.

This morning the Consolidated workmen commenced tearing up Summit street again between Jefferson and Madison, ostensibly to make some changes in the laying of the track. The Robison cars were again stopped by piles of stones.

There was considerable excitement about 2 o'clock. A squad of police was dispatched to the scene to quell and riotous actions.

Messrs. Robison and Lang had a heated argument. Mr. Robison wanted to make arrangements whereby he could run his cars over in a bunch, but was not very successful.

City Engineer Miller approached the gentlemen, and stated that if they did not stop their wrangling in one hour and a half, he would condemn the St. Clair street bridge and the Adams line and stop all the cars in the city.

Mr. Robison had some twenty cars bunched behind the Consolidated's stone barrier, and at 2:0 o'clock he ordered his men to remove the stones regardless of the men who were at work on the tracks, paving, etc., and it was done. The cars proceeded on their way without molestation, and matters are at a stand-still again as the Bee goes to press.

40,000 bushels, were plentiful. Among this morning's charters were . D. Stimson for oats and Saginaw Valley for corn and oats to Port Huron.

Mackinaw.

Mackinaw, July 11.—Down—Grover, Sigel, Red, White and Blue, Houghton, Benson, 10:20 last night; Parnell, 11:15; Ed Smith, midnight; Cayuga, 12:30 a. m.; Ouapana, 1:40; Aurora and consorts, 2:40; Cadillac, 3; Langell, Aramac, Sheldon, 3:20; Fitzgerald, 3:30; Harlem, 4; American Union, 5:15; Friant and consorts, 9; Vulcan, 10:30.

Up—Susan Peck, Joliet, Choctaw, 11 last night; Wm. Chisholm, 11:20; Jno. Eddy and consort, midnight; Briton, 2; Saxon, 3; Hudson, 5:20; Rugee, 5:40; Juniata, 8:30; Butteroni, 9:30. Calm, light fog.

Buffalo, July 11.—Coal freight opened quiet with small takings and rate unchanged. Charters—Farwell, Rutter, Chicago, 60 cents; Barnum, Wilmaukee, 60 cents; Ogarita Brink, Portage, 50 cents, Cleveland Rates.

Cleveland, July 11.—Two or three Escanaba shippers used badly to-day and the market is again on the verge of advance to 75c. Some ore that should come from Escanaba is being turned to Marquette and shippers say they will reduce the ore movement on anything above a 70c freight from Escanaba for they cannot avoid an advance on cargoes already provided for. On one cargo of soft coal from Cleveland to Chicago 70c was paid, but the load was not desirable as regards dispatch and regular rates to Chicago and Milwaukee is still 1860.

PLEASANT MEETING

At the Y. W. C. A. Rooms on Madison Street Yesterday.

In the pleasant parlors of the Young Women's Christian association, at their new quarters on Madison street, was held the 5 o'clock Sunday meeting, led by Mrs. Zerfugh, and which was well attended. The topic was "Four Steps to Christ." The association now has a membership of 170 young women. The noon rest is one of the best features. Here young women can bring their lunches and procure a cup of coffee or chocolate for 3 cents, or they can buy a nice lunch for 10 cents. This plan of getting a nice fresh lunch so cheaply has met with such favor that out of the twenty or twenty-five girls who enjoy the noon rest, but three or four bring their lunches. There is an erroneous idea that only girls who are members of the association, or members of churches, are welcome. This place has been provided for every working girl of Toledo. The parlors are cool, roomy and pleasant. There are two pianos, books, pictures, comfortable easy chairs and cosy tetes, and surely a girl who must either spend her noon hour on the street, or in the office, or shop, or factory, where her working hours are spent, will appreciate the opportunities offered by this noon rest.

ALL THE FLORIDA HE WANTS.

Last November a dissatisfied suburbanite, moved by the glowing descriptions he had read of life and its entrancing joys in the pineapple and cocoanut region of Lake Worth, on the eastern coast of Florida, sold out his business and moved south.

He has just returned. When seen a day or two ago he had not yet relieved himself of the dust and grime of travel, and there was something about him suggesting the idea that the walking between Florida and Chicago must be extremely bad. He was asked to give some of his experiences and impressions of pineapple and cocoanut raising in southeastern Florida, and he complied with the willingness of a man who has come up through great tribulation, but has cut his eye teeth.

"I went down south in good style," he said, "traveling on the cars till I got to Titusville, on the Indian river. Then I took the steamer for Lake Worth. Stopped at the most stylish hotel when I got there

HOW TO DEPOSIT MONEY.

Some Good Hints on Banking Business.

1. If you wish to open an account with a bank, provide yourself with a proper introduction. Well-managed banks do not open accounts with strangers.

2. Do not draw a check unless you have the money in bank or in your possession to deposit. Don't test the courage or generosity of your bank by presenting, or allowing to be presented, your check for a larger sum than your balance.

3. Do not draw a check or send it to a person out of the city, expecting to make it good before it can possibly get back. Sometimes telegraphic advice is asked about such checks.

4. Do not exchange checks with anybody. This is soon discovered by your bank; it does your friend no good and discredits you.

5. Do not give your check to a friend with the condition that he is not to use it until a certain time. He is sure to take an out-of-town check from a neighbor, pass it through your bank without charge, and give him your check for it. You are sure to get caught. Discount an accommodation note; in the meaning of a bank it is a note for which no value has passed from the indorser to the drawer.

6. Do not give your check to a stranger. This is an open door for fraud, and if your bank loses through you it will not feel kindly toward you.

7. When you send your check out of your city to pay bills, write the name and residence of your payee, thus: "Pay to John Smith & Co., of Boston." This will put your bank on its guard if presented at the counter.

8. Don't commit the folly of supposing that because you trust the bank with your money the bank ought to trust you by paying over-drafts.

9. Don't suppose you can behave badly in one bank and stand well with the others. You forget there is a clearing house.

10. Don't quarrel with your bank. If you are not treated well, go somewhere else; but don't go and leave your discount line unprotected. Don't think it unreasonable if your bank declines to.

11. If you want an accommodation note discounted, tell the bank frankly that it is not, in their definition, a business note. If you take a note from a debtor with an agreement, verbal or written, that it is to be renewed, in whole or part, and if you get that note discounted, and then ask to have a new one discounted to take up the old one, tell the bank about it.

12. Don't commit the folly of saying that you will guarantee the payment of a note which you have already indorsed.

13. Give your bank credit for being intelligent generally, and understanding its own business particularly. It is much better informed, probably, than you supposed.

14. Don't try and convince your bank that the paper or security which has already been declined is better than the bank supposed. This is only chaff.—Confectioners' Journal.

LOAF AND INVITE YOUR SOUL.

The world has a kindly feeling for the man who fishes, not unattended with a smile and deprecatory glance because of the weakness; but what cares he? It is not his pride to catch fish; they are merely accessory to the outing.

He wants his boat, his field, his sky and a certain expanse of water, not to mention his bite and his bait, with perhaps a summer shower or two, and there he is! For 10 hours he is a king, heedless and happy and vulgar as a tramp, with the hunger of a woodchopper and a succeeding sleep as sweet and refreshing as a babe's.

Does he catch fish? Poor, selfish, calculating soul! What have fish to do with it? Assuredly he doth have them, however, and by the bushel; and the bite of that large one that got away will thrill him to the last hour of his life and teach him that he hath not lived in vain.—Judge.

HOW THE CONTINENTS ATTRACT SEAS.

The effect of gravitation in heaping up the sea water upon the shores of continents is one of the most interesting as well as the most curious and least considered facts in connection with old ocean's history.

Thus, the continents are all situated at the tops of great hills or mountains of water, and, to cross the Atlantic or any other ocean the ship has to first go down the sloping sheet, cross the valley and then climb the mountain of water on the other side before it safely reaches a harbor.

In this connection the interesting calculation has been made that in mid-ocean on the Atlantic the depression is about three-quarters of a mileunrdlumwfy level of the water at coastline, while a ship in traveling from San Francisco to Yokohama, Japan, must cross a valley at least a mile in depth.—St. Louis Republic.

IN ITALY
Before they got Sapolio.
the proverb ran—"The pan says to the pot, Keep off or you'll smutch me."
If your grocer sends you anything in place of SAPOLIO, send it back and insist upon having just what you ordered. SAPOLIO always gives satisfaction. On floors, tables and painted work it acts like a charm. For scouring pots, pans and metals it has no equal. Everything shines after it, and even the children delight in using it in their attempts to help around the house.
